

SHACKS DESTROYED BY FLAMES

ENTIRE CITY IS ENDANGERED BECAUSE OF STRUCTURES ERECTED IN DEFIANCE OF LAW

The Olympic Skating Rink, Erected at a Cost of $16,000, Was Destroyed Last Night and the Adjoining Laundry Building Was Damaged, by Fire, the Origin of Which Is Unkown, But Which Found Easy Prey in the Shacks Erected Against the Provisions of the Ordinance--Pavilion Had Been Ordered to Be Roofed With Asbestos But the Order Had Been Disobeyed--What Owners Say

Fire, of unknown origin, threatening for a time the entire business section of Reno, destroyed the Olympic skating rink, damaged the United States laundry, burned two horses to death and broke the windows on adjacent buildings at 10:30 o'clock last night.

Starting in the Van Buren stable in the rear of the laundry, the flames caught on the rink, erected in violation of the city building ordinance, and in five minutes a loss of $15,000 was caused. The buildings destroyed were insured for about $12,000.

Firemen Endangered

Repeatedly during the fight against the spreading flames, the lives of the firemen were endangered by the falling walls. J. J. Hart, a hoseman, was killed in the debris when the front of the pavilion crashed to the street, but he extricated himself in time to escape death.

Again when the electric wires crashed to the ground, the nozzlemen working on the corner of Lake and Second streets were entangled in a mass of spitting flames, but got out of the way without injury.

When the flames caught on the side of the pavilion the entire structure was ablaze before water could be turned on. Then the firemen began their heroic fight but the wind swept the flames through the length of the rink with lightning-like velocity.

Inflammable Roofing

Inflammable tarred paper roofing, heated to a high degree, exploded with violence, and the flames increasing in fury. Windows crashed to the floor with the heat, and the building was doomed to destruction. But the chief of the fire department believes that if his order was obeyed when the rink was constructed the fire would have been confined to the small stable in which it started. Chief Webster was given samples of the roofing permitted to be used in construction work in Reno. One sample, the kind afterward put on the rink, lasted one minute under the blow pipe; the other, an asbestos product that was recommended for use by the chief, withstood the test for five minutes, and still left one thickness.

Chief's Order Disobeyed

"I sanctioned an asbestos roof," stated Webster last night. "It was not used. By whose authority the order was evaded, I do not know. The building could have been saved if the elementary methods of protection were employed."

John Eyrout, a Frenchman laboring for the city, saw the flames in the Van Buren barn at ten o'clock. He gave no alarm, thinking that it was a light. Soon afterwards the flimsy building was being destroyed. The alarm was turned in by the spectators after several seconds' delay and the firemen responded with promptitude.

Horses Burned Alive

Charles Short of the Overland stables, seeing the flames and knowing that animal lives were endangered, rescued a valuable horse belonging to the Flanagan warehouse company. Two horses, the property of J. H. McCormack of the hotel bearing his name, were left to burn to death. An excited on-looker attempted to shoot them, but the flames closed in around the beasts obstructing the view, and they were left to die miserably in the little hut.

The west side of the Olympic rink was afire by the time the water was turned on, the flames jumping from the windows of the east wall and bursting through the roof in forty places. With a roar that could be heard several blocks the pavilion became alive with fiery tongues leaping skyward and carrying the sparks to adjoining property.

Hope Abandoned

Hope of saving the rink was abandoned at once, and the attention of the firemen was given to protecting the Overland stables and houses on the far side of Lake street. Blazing pieces of timber alighted on the roofs of the dwellings and livery barn while the firemen were moving the hose. A half hour's work saved these places from destruction.

Electric Wires on Fire

Over the heads of the firemen the electric wires, carrying the 23,000 volts for the use of Sparks, began to burn. Fred Brown of the Reno Electrical Company shut off the current before the firemen were electrocuted. Nevertheless the low-power wires dropped to the street one at a time and sizzled across the pavement in the throng until pronounced dead by the quick action of Brown.

Cadle's Men on Hand

Captain Cadle had a cordon of policemen around the burning buildings, and the crowd of curious spectators, surging around the structures from four sides, was held back while the firemen worked.

This is the first big fire since the Catholic church was burned two years ago. Members of the city council viewed the work of the flames with critical eye. Suggestions were heaped on their heads, and the throng generally condemned the policy that allowed the flimsy shack to be constructed in the heart of the city without regard for the safety of the property adjoining.

Cause Unknown

The cause of the fire is unknown. People who passed through the alley on which the barn was located, where the flames were first seen, stated that no one was observed around the structure. Whether a man slept there could not be learned last night. The flames started on the southeast corner of the shack and soon enveloped the entire building.

Garage Threatened

The fire at one time, while the front of the doomed skating rink was a mass of flames, swept in great sheets towards the Reno Automobile garage, and a small blaze was started on the roof of one of the cottages adjoining it which led to the belief that the garage was on fire. There was a lively scrimmage among those owning machines stored in the brick building to get them away to a place of safety.

Had this building, or its front doors, taken fire the loss would have been far heavier than it was. There is naturally a considerable quantity of gasoline always on hand in the garage, and the number of machines, which could not have been moved, would have been destroyed.

THE INSURANCE

Knowles and Koritz, the owners of the Olympic rink, stated last night that the insurance on the place was about $7,000, while their loss is $8,000. The original cost of the Olympic rink, built on ground leased from W. B. Van Buren, is given as $4,000. The fixtures bring up the remainder of the cost.

Solded Clothes Damaged

The United States laundry was damaged to the extent of $5,000, and is fully covered by insurance. The machinery was not damaged. The walls of the structure, the clothes, office furniture and floors were injured by water and fire. Plate glass windows in the front were broken by hose eager to get the furniture from the interior.

Fire Department's Work

A loss of $2,000 was sustained by the buildings in the adjoining lots. Their total destruction was averted merely by the excellent work of the men under Chief Webster.

WHAT OWNERS SAY

The laundry is owned by W. B. Van Buren, who also owned the rink.

Before the fire had died down he was found by a Journal reporter to whom he said:

"Yes, the buildings are mine, as is also the ground.

"I built the rink a few months ago, and leased it to Knowles and Koritz for a monthly rental and 75 per cent of the income; and it was a good paying business from the start, netting us better than $100 per day.

"The building was erected at a cost of $16,000. It contained an organ which cost us $3,500, and about $700 worth of skates.

"The piano and music store of Werner, which occupied the corner room in the front of the rink, was fortunately saved, and is intact, even to the sheet music, and although damaged, the loss will be slight.

E. Scott, the singer of illustrated songs at the Grand is a worker, and that fact and his friendship for Werner, who is away in Goldfield, stands the latter in good stead, as the singer was promptly on hand and helped to save the music and instruments, over which he guarded.

The refreshment room in the rink was leased to Shepard & Son of the Busy Bee, who sustained a loss of about $50 in fixtures and stock.

as threats of such a thing have been made, and I believe some of them have been carried out with the result you see."

"There is an example of the difference between a fireproof building and a shack," was said. "What do you think of it?"

"There can be no doubt of the justness of the demand for fire-proof buildings within the fire limits," was the reply, "and I shall not rebuild anything of this nature on the ground, although it will without doubt be rebuilt in a much more substantial manner."

"Did you have a permit to erect that rink building?"

"I did have such a permit, and have it still. It is in writing and signed."

Werner Was Lucky

The piano and music store of Werner, which occupied the corner room in the front of the rink, was fortunately saved, and is intact, even to the sheet music, and although damaged, the loss will be slight.

E. Scott, the singer of illustrated songs at the Grand is a worker, and that fact and his friendship for Werner, who is away in Goldfield, stands the latter in good stead, as the singer was promptly on hand and helped to save the music and instruments, over which he guarded.

The refreshment room in the rink was leased to Shepard & Son of the Busy Bee, who sustained a loss of about $50 in fixtures and stock.

Queen Victoria of Spain is a sad trial to her maids of honor. Educated in England, Her Majesty is an ardent believer in the virtue of fresh air and insists on having windows open at all hours. ECKHARDT'S IDEALS SHOW TO A BIG HOUSE

"Eckhardt's Ideals" have opened a week's engagement at McKissack's very successfully. Monday evening to a crowded house they played "Caught in the Web," a detective melodrama of New York life and yesterday evening a large audience witnessed "Her Wedding Day," a pastoral drama, companion to "York State Folks." The company was much better last evening than in the opening performance. The company carries many members of talent and has special scenery for the production of its pieces.

The Ideals will play "The Great Northwest" or "The Road To Frisco."

At the Grand
Withal it was forced to disappoint its patrons Monday night the management of the Grand theatre has a bill this week which should prove a good drawing card for amusement lovers. The performance last evening was fine, and Manager Cliff will add another act to the bill for the remainder of the week.

James T. Dodvin has always been a favorite with Reno audiences and this trip he has a turn better than ever before. His ventriloquism fascinat and he pleases with his mimic character in clever jest.

"Will You Love Me in December as You Do in May," the illustrated song by Edouard Scott, adds another week of success to this popular singer at the Grand. The pictures are very good. The moving pictures are both interesting and funny. The film showing "The Visit to the Zoological Gardens, London" is very instructive as well as interesting. The bill on the whole will be a great attraction when the other act is added to the performance this evening.

HYMERS' NAME CANNOT GO ON THE CITY TICKET

So Says Clerk Christie to Whom the City Council Left the Decision—Election Supplies Are Ordered and List of Candidates Sent Out

Unless an order of court is procured to enforce the demands of T. K. Hymers, the name of the candidate for city councilman will not be placed on the ballot for the election May 7. The list of candidates has been sent out, and the election supplies ordered. Hymers' name is not one of those for which the municipal voters will cast their choice.

In explanation of the reason for leaving Hymers off the ticket, City Clerk Christie stated yesterday that the council put it up to him for a decision; that Hymers did not file his petition in accordance with the law followed by the others; that he is under a bond as city clerk and that the listing of Hymers' name with the others would only cause a probable contest and that the advice of several attorneys supports his stand.

"I do not see how I could place the name of T. K. Hymers on the ticket and observe the law at the same time," stated Christie. "It is strictly my duty to decide on whether I shall use my own judgment or not. I have been advised to omit the name, and await the further action of the petitioners. This course will be followed." The number of candidates for councilman, then, will be one short, and the report is current on the street that several others that announced themselves as candidates will withdraw from the fight before the election is held. Hymers will probably be one of the through force of circumstances. He sent his petition asking to be placed on the ticket and signed by three hundred voters to the office of the county clerk. A certified copy of the petition was taken to the city clerk's office several days afterwards. The former county commissioner believed that this action would save his candidacy.

TWO-YEAR-OLD BOY IS NEARLY CRUSHED BY CAR

Little Archie Griffith's Neck Was Under Wheel When Brakes Caused a Stop—Care Prevents Accidents

Run down by a Second street electric car and caught with his head under the wheel, Archibald Griffiths, the two-year-old son of Sherwood Griffiths, narrowly escaped with his life at four o'clock yesterday afternoon. The baby, toddling down the street and when the car was coasting on the grade, he jumped across the track. Motorman J. A. Smith reversed the power and threw on the brakes, the baby sliding under the fender. The car came to a stop when the child's neck was across the rail, pinched down by the front wheel.

Little Archibald was taken to his parents' home on Winter street between First and Second. The physician who attended him stated that he will suffer no serious consequences from the injuries.

T. S. Behlert, conductor in charge of the Second street car, told a Journal reporter yesterday that a dozen passengers saw the Griffiths child walking in the street as the car approached. "The infant carelessly toddled towards the track as the car approached, and before the motorman realized the danger the accident was unpreventable."

Residents of the west end of the city said after the affair that the marvelous escapes of children every day are avoided solely by the care of the men in charge of the street car. The younger element have a habit of standing beside the track, and running across when the car approaches. The fender of the car was tied up, so that it would not scrape the track. This allowed the body of the Griffith child to be crushed against the wheel.

SHOPLIFTING CASES REPORTED TO POLICE

Extensive Operations at Sullivan Millinery, Palace Drygoods and Gray-Reid-Wright Stores Cause Officers to Believe Gang Is at Work

Several shoplifting cases have been reported to the police within the last few weeks, and the alleged capture of an millinery store was victimized by three clever women, and hats, the costly Easter kind, were carried away under spring coats. The Palace dry goods store was visited, and the Gray, Reid, Wright emporium, was relieved of articles of value.

When the losses were discovered, the managements reported the affair to the police department. The proprietors of the millinery store said they knew the women, knew their residence at least. The chief told them to send a warrant to the house, and if it was not paid a warrant for their arrest might be procured.

Evidently the women paid the bill when they were confronted with the fact that the theft was known. The chief has heard nothing subsequent about the case.

This is the first time in two years that extensive operations by shoplifters have been reported. The police believe that it is the female members of a gang of toughs in this city that are responsible for the crimes charged.

THE LITTLE DAUGHTER OF SPECIAL INDIAN AGENT S. H. WHEELER IS RECOVERING

Ruth Wheeler, the nine-year-old daughter of S. H. Wheeler of this city, who has been dangerously ill for several days, will recover, according to the statement given out at the home last night. The physician said that the little miss has an excellent chance to improve under favorable conditions and they do not expect a relapse.

Several attendances at the bedside of Ruth tell of a battle against the sickness that seemed about to take her life away. This skill of the physicians is now to be rewarded.

THE AIR BEFOULED BY DECAYING CARCASSES OF HOGS

NASTY WAY OF GETTING RID OF OLD CARRIAGE

Health of Reno May Be Menaced by Methods Adopted and Officials Are Investigating to Find Out How Smells Can Be Smothered

On the road to Sparks, not many days ago, there is a place where passengers who have been over the road before and know what to expect, turn pale and a chill for hands, cheeks and smiling lips when they approach it. This is a place in the passing swine of the electric line, just below the brewery, and the reason for the strange, wild smells which haunt the ozone there is the fact that a lot of ground near the railroad tracks has been turned into a burying place for carriages, and the burying has been so poorly done that it might as well have been left undone.

A few weeks since a lot of hogs died in the stock-yards. These were removed to the place designated and there buried by the section gang. It is said, under the orders of a railroad agent.

The carcasses were not deeply buried, being covered with a thin layer of earth, and this, since the warm weather has commenced, has dried out till there is little left of it, certainly not enough to prevent the befouling and poisoning of the air by the decaying matter.

As summer advances the stench will become worse, and unless steps are taken to prevent it, and the time is not far distant when not only the passengers to Sparks will suffer, but Reno as well.

This afternoon there will be an official investigation of the conditions existing, and it is expected that steps to remedy the evil will be taken at once.

PLUMBERS AND LATHERS STRIKE FOR UNION RULES

One of the rules of the Plumbers Union provides that if a man is discharged later than 4 p. m. on a working day following his discharge, he shall be paid for half of the working day following his discharge. Last Saturday afternoon Foreman Evans of the Nevada Hardware Company discharged a plumber named Robert Bunce, after the time specified, and Monday the discharged plumber demanded pay for half that day, which was refused. A strike followed, the plumbers walked out.

The platers of the six king men were kept open, and will not be filled till this morning, should the men desire to return to work at which time, should they still remain out, the foreman declares he will fill their places with others.

The lathers recently demanded more pay from the plasterers, which was refused, and yesterday a general walk-out followed of the usual to meet the demand. The strike may last some time as both sides are determined.

MORE WITNESSES AT INQUEST

Coroner's Jury in the Hampton Case Orders Attendance of Several Men Who Were at Brown's

The coroner's jury which was to have finished its investigation of the death of Frank Hampton, the engineer killed at Browns siding in Humboldt county on April 8, did not bring in a verdict yesterday, but adjourned till tomorrow. The attendance of additional witnesses has been ordered.

These witnesses are: the rear brakeman of the extra freight, into the hind-end of which Engineer Hampton's train crashed with fatal results to himself, the section boss at that place, and the coal-heavers who were present at the siding when the wreck occurred.

So far the evidence has all demonstrated that the switch through which No. 4 ran was opened by someone after the freight engine had finished coaling from the main line, and had backed again to where its train stood on the siding. To determine, if possible, who it was that opened the switch, and by so doing sent brave Engineer Hampton to his death, is the duty of the jury. It is leaving no stone unturned that may aid in the discovery of the guilty person.

Yesterday morning Coroner Frank Bell and the jury visited the yards of the company, where a switch of similar nature to the one at Brown's

Go to Hawthorne to Face Murder Charge

A. R. Preston and Joseph Smith, the Goldfield Industrial Workers of the World agitators charged with the murder of John Silva, a restaurant proprietor there at the beginning of the present labor trouble, passed through here last night on their way to Hawthorne, where their trial will be held tomorrow.

Protesting against their arrest, the prisoners repeatedly declared their innocence to those who interviewed them. Preston and Smith have been confined in the state prison for the last three weeks, the officials of Esmeralda county fearing a jail break if they were confined at Hawthorne.

Out of a venire of 144 names a jury will be selected to try Preston and Smith. Judge Langan, who has abandoned all cases in his district to attend to the charge against the alleged murderers of Silva, will preside at the case. He will rush the case through the court.

TELEGRAPHERS PROTEST AGAINST AWARD OF ARBITRATORS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—The Order of Railway Telegraphers has filed in the United States circuit court exceptions to part of the decision, arrived at by the board of arbitration that received testimony regarding the differences between the telegraphers and the Southern Pacific Company as to wages and hours. There were four points considered by the arbitrators, and two of these were decided against the telegraphers. The first was as to whether the Order of Railway Telegraphers should legislate for the train dispatchers respecting rates of pay, hours of service, or otherwise. The arbitrators decided that they should not. The other points decided against the telegraphers was the elimination from operation of the schedule to be adopted of certain important agencies where the duties of soliciting traffic are paramount. The telegraphers, in protesting against the award respecting these two points, claim that the testimony was not properly taken.

Time to Act

THE destruction of the skating rink last night, regrettable as it is from the point of view of the owners, gives Reno a lesson from which the city council should not be slow to profit.

The rink was erected in defiance of the building laws of this city, as was pointed out to the council on Monday by City Engineer Stewart. Those laws are lenient enough, as we all know, but easy as they are, they have not been obeyed. And for what reason? Because, in another case, involving another ordinance, a court, and not one of last resort, gave it its opinion that the city council could not delegate its authority to public servants charged with the execution of the city ordinances. For no other reason that we know of, and we have made inquiry, a law that stands on the books of Reno has been deliberately violated.

If the law was not good, in God's name what was it kept on the books for, and why was there not a law adopted that would stand?

The public has a right to be somewhat impatient of the needless delay in adopting a valid law, if the present one is defective. Reno is a modern city and its residents try to be up-to-date, yet the other day, when we tried to find out who was responsible for the erection of two shacks in the heart of the business quarter in defiance of the city's safety, who would admit that he had given permission for the building of such perilous structures? Not a soul. It was a case of "pass the buck."

It was shown that the shacks, finally, had been erected without a shadow of authority. Just think of such a thing. Anyone could come along and erect a tent, or an inflammable shed or such a structure as was destroyed last night, alongside the finest building in town and the city officials felt that they could not move against it. What inducement is offered to men of means to erect fine structures, when they are afforded absolutely no protection in the shape of a strong fire ordinance, faithfully enforced?

Last night's fire probably reaches those who are in charge of our municipal affairs that procrastination is a dangerous thing. This city is too large and important and there is too much at stake to delay adopting a strong fire ordinance, simply because an election is close at hand. And that is the only reason we have heard given for the inaction of the city law-makers.

It might be pointed out, incidentally, that the city council had a fine well-drawn ordinance framed for its consideration some time ago, in the drawing-up of which City Attorney Stoddard, Chief of the Fire Department Webster and City Engineer Stewart spent three months, and which combines the best features of the law in the most progressive cities in this country. That ordinance was permitted to lie on the shelf. Had it been in force, no such fire as that of last night would have occurred.

That the present ordinance is inadequate, we are willing to admit. For instance, there are two men under arrest for erecting the shacks on Second street. Today they will appear in the police court and be fined. Then what becomes of the shacks? They stand and the men, having paid their fines, will go back and occupy the places just as before, making the law a mock and Reno a laughing stock.

The people will not stand for this sort of thing. If the present officials cannot act or will not act, because of an election, Reno is so aroused that there will be a revolution in municipal affairs. We have no doubt that the commission men all right, but hell is paved with good intentions, and what Reno wants is men who will act.

This is plain talk. It has to be. The occasion demands it.

Credit to Whom Due

SPECIAL credit is deserved by Chief Webster of the fire department for their work at the fire last night. Nor should Captain Caille and his men be overlooked, for they did their duty well.

To do one's duty is expected, of course, but when the performance of that duty involves the risk of life, as it did last night, there are not many who would do as the firemen did and go into the midst of things, surrounded by fires that menaced them with a horrible death and with the tar roof exploding under their feet.

They did well and it is to their efforts that the fire was confined to a comparatively insignificant cost. Reno owes recognition to these men and we hope the city will give it.

Cleaning Up in Reno

PUBLIC commendation and hearty cooperation should be given to the ladies of the Century Club for their efforts in behalf of Reno, and now that they have arranged for a "clean-up day" for May 3, it is up to the people to lend a hand.

Reno certainly needs a cleaning—a good strong, vigorous one, with everybody helping. Let the streets and the alleys and the backyards—and the front yards, too, in some cases—be swept out and the rubbish burned. The snow of winter is gone, and rains are nearly over, and it is time to welcome the spring with a clean face.

So don't forget May 3. Put the date beside of a red circle on your calendar and make a place for it in your memory, so you will not be likely to forget it.

And, while on the subject of cleaning, what is the matter with having a kind of "clean-up day" every day in the year, especially down on the business streets? The street-sweepers go along any time from ten o'clock at night to four in the morning. Then, until six o'clock, the streets, with no one except a belated newspaper worker or policeman abroad, are just about too neat and sweet for anything.

You who come down town to work at night o'clock would not believe it, perhaps, for you see the gutters littered with truck and papers that have been swept into the streets from the stores and therein lies the trouble. The stores are swept out, but instead of taking the rubbish into the back alley and placing it in barrels for removal, everything is put into the public street. A wind comes along and then the papers are strewn everywhere and you would never know that the streets had once been swept as here as a house floor and only a few hours previously, at that.

Our merchants mean to help in the upbuilding of Reno and we know that it is only thoughtlessness on the part of their employees that has caused this practice to grow to its present proportions.

The Street Question

THE fire will of course bring the subject of the building ordinance uppermost in the affairs to be attended to by the city council, but the board should not overlook the subject of improved streets.

We offered a suggestion yesterday as to the immediate use of the road-toller that the city owns.

While the roller is being put to the use for which it was intended when it was bought, the city should get some statistics as to the volume of street traffic by the square yard, to furnish it with an index as to the class of pavement required on the thoroughfares of the city. For example, the roadway in front of Commercial Row is uneven, sunken in spots, and shows the signs of wear at many places. In other words, a more substantial pavement is required than has been placed there. If the traffic at a given point is known, the laying of an inadequate pavement there can be avoided in the future.

But, whatever may be done, this subject of improved streets cannot be allowed to rest. We must have them. And we must have better country roads. Don't forget that.

RAILROAD MAN'S KICK

NEW ORLEANS, April 16.—Sir William Van Horn, chairman of the board of directors of the Canadian Pacific Railroad upon his return from Guatemala where he is building a railroad, said today: "My definition of rail and legislation is tinkering with a problem which no mind or set of minds can solve. I am operating in countries where there is no such thing as railroad legislation, for which I am indeed thankful. Legislation which seeks to reverse the order of things and directly or indirectly to block the great engines of railroad activity is stagnating the whole commercial life."

THREATENED CAR STRIKE

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—Though both sides to the controversy first through their official heads to discuss it, there is definite information that the street car men of San Francisco have been for some days formulating a renewed demand for a eight hour day with $3 pay, to be submitted some time before the first of next month, and that the United Railroads is preparing to resist a serious strike if that should be the outcome.

A SENATORIAL DEADLOCK

MADISON, Wis., April 16.—Three ballots were taken tonight in the Republican caucus to select a candidate for United States senator to succeed Senator Spooner, but no change in the existing deadlock was made.

SOME VIEWS OF THE NATIONAL PRESS

National Sufficiency

(From the St. Louis Republic)

A London weekly newspaper which devotes much talent and space to literature is moved to wonder that Americans are now writing their own books, instead of waiting for the genius of other lands to supply their needs. By "other lands," of course, England is meant. "For the benefit of the author of this brilliant idea it might be said that America is not only writing her own books, but is painting her own pictures, composing her own operas, sculpting her own statues, fashioning her own great buildings and almost, if not quite, manufacturing her own 'English butlers.' America can draw its artistic life from within, should a high fence be built around the continent. The United States can get along without the rest of the world. The question is, can the rest of the world get along without the United States? Especially, can England do without the United States? So far as writing their own books is concerned, Americans do that, and also write for thousands and thousands of British readers. Every successful American book has almost as wide a sale in London as in New York. Every one of the "six best sellers" has its British edition. Many of them have their Canadian and Australian editions. And with the drama it is the same story. The United States have ceased to depend on over-the-sea writers for their plays. Instead, they send American players, appearing in American productions, to entertain and instruct the English in their beloved "Lunnon." Witness the eagerness with which the British are anticipating the announced visit of Sothern and Marlowe to their shores. The London Fortnightly self-consciously remarks that 180,000 copies of Dickens' works were sold in the United States last year. It would be interesting to know how many copies of Poe and Hawthorne were sold in England in the same period. The younger of the two great English-speaking countries has ceased to depend upon the other for its artistic being. It gives as much as it takes.

Roosevelt Not Indispensable

(Cleveland Leader Republican)

No leader of the President can doubt his loyalty to the president and to the principles of popular government which have become associated with his administration and known by his name. This paper has been one of his most consistent and thoroughgoing supporters in every step he has taken for the "square deal." It has applauded his services in the great cause of international peace. It has rejoiced in his buoyant, unflinching, hearty Americanism; his hard fighting in behalf of honesty and fair play; his whole enthusiastic inspiring personality.

But the Leader must confess to some impatience with the form of hero worship which pictures any man, even Theodore Roosevelt, as indispensable to the American nation. No one ought ever to be so magnified that his country is relatively belittled. The president would be the first to insist upon this point. He is an American who finds the United States so much bigger and greater and more powerful than any man that it is a wanton distortion of the fitness and balance of things to picture the most useful American as the one hope of the republic. President Roosevelt is not necessary to keep the government of the American republic in the people's hands. He is not the only man who can baffle and rout all the forces of corruption. He has co-workers, friends and loyal followers who could take up his work where he expects to leave it when he retires from the White House, and carry on the people's business to the satisfaction of honest citizens. Roosevelt is not indispensable, though the principles of civic righteousness for which he stands are the life of the nation.

The Disarmament Idea

(New Orleans Picayune)

If the powers opposed to limitation of armaments were to take Great Britain seriously and propose that the naval strength to a force more on a parity with the navies of other countries, the insincerity of the whole British proposition for limitation of armaments would become at once apparent. No British ministry would dare to accept such a proposition, as the British electors, always jealous of their country's commercial supremacy, would promptly drive out of office the leaders who might have the temerity to talk of weakening the country's naval strength.

The other powers who propose to take part in The Hague conference are perfectly aware of Great Britain's insincerity in the matter of limitation of armaments, hence their unwillingness to waste time in discussing a proposition that can be productive of no practical results. Even Japan does not propose to waste time on the limitation of armaments proposition, and she is not only employing all her own shipyards in the construction of warships, but she has actually placed a contract in England for the construction of a 22,000-ton battleship, Brazil, another of the countries to take part in The Hague conference, has closed a contract with a British firm for three 18,000-ton battleships and twenty other warships of various types. These facts, together with the energy being displayed by Italy, France and Germany, as well as Russia, in increasing their fleets, make the limitation of armaments proposition look ridiculous.

The City of Bryce

(Baltimore American)

James Bryce, in his Chicago address, gave free play to fancy and painted for the delegation of his auditors the city beautiful as it has been conceived by those who would have the municipality invest its tax receipts in art galleries and amusement enterprises. It is an entrancing outlook, that of fine cities in which free music, free art, free amusement and the like shall be found in association with driveways buttressed by stately colonnades, canals flowing through and under the streets, fairylike roof gardens, recreation grounds, boating lakes and swimming pools. It is a beautiful picture, and the socialists have painted it many times over. Pleasure, a flood of delight, unlimited amusement, is an attractive ideal to set up before the minds of many persons as the highest end of municipal activity, but it will not quite meet the Spartan-like notions of the advocates of the strenuous life and of primitive simplicity of character and the cultivation of individuality.

It remains a fact that the hard places of life are still the most productive of the commanding type of men in public affairs. In the arts, in business and all the higher walks of life. The world has held its experiences of hanging-garden cities, of cities of birds, music and frivolity, of cities of wealth and luxury, and the record of such has invariably been decadence. But so long as the city beautiful and the city of delights can be created by private enthusiasm and contributions from the purses of opulent citizens rather than by tax draft there is no reason to set a limit upon the amount of decoration that may creditably be instilled into city life. In such cases the result would represent an overwork of the prosperity of the few for the enjoyment of the many. Even pleasure may pall upon the taste and its pursuit has the certain result of making the tasks of life appear irksome. When this feeling becomes general all the ornateness that may be given to a municipality would not serve to cover up the diseases that would crop out in the life of the people. It is well enough as an after-dinner sentiment to say that "the modern city should be remodeled to reproduce the sights and sounds of nature that are the basis of poetry," but in practical effect, whenever the esthetic cult has had full swing, it has invariably played havoc with the sturdier graces of city life that do not flourish under exotic conditions.

When We All Look Alike

(Chicago Inter Ocean)

The United States government, through the medium of the Agricultural department, has given official sanction to the following prescription for getting thin, if you are fat: "Eat little, sleep little and drink less," and for getting fat, if you are thin: "Drink all you can, eat all you can, and sleep as much as you can." There is nothing more beautifully beneficent, in some respects, than a government which is always reaching out the tendrils of its paternal affection toward its children, and showing them how to be better and happier, thinner or fatter, as the case may be.

In the present instance, the object in view is to instruct us how to help ourselves when we are weighing too much or too little, when we are attracting undue attention because of our chubbiness or old skininess, when our buttons won't stay on or the family expression on our faces won't come off. Naturally, in order that we shall all be equally fat and equally thin, that we may all weigh the same and feel the same and look practically the same, we must, if we be fat, be prepared to make some sacrifices.

We must not drink a drop of water or any other liquid for one hour before eating nor until an hour has elapsed after eating. Our breakfast must consist of eggs, toast and coffee or cocoa, without sugar. One little cup of consommé, or one little square of meat, must do for luncheon. However, as a special favor, we may occasionally have a little spinach or cucumber.

INDIAN PRINCESS IS JAILED BY MALAY

Chief Malay and his vigilant force have induced a number of swells to become temporary guests at the Hotel de Surveillance back of the butcher shop. Among those whose presence has honored the popular resort are Calico Ann, a princess of the blood of Winnemucca, and Thunderstorm, a worthy warrior of the tribe of Hahira la.

Previous to their brief residence at the hotel of the lock they resided in the fashionable quarters known as Tin Can ridge. The reason why they became the guests Malay is not so easy to tell as the ancestors of the visitors acquired an appetite for a certain white man's beverage called fire water. Drinking too much of this refreshment results in a desire to yell and scratch and pull hair and it was to overcome this acquired condition that the guests registered. The hotel bill amounted to ten dollars each, which will be paid in cash, nit.

"Touch your pocket book and there's your friend," says Chief Malay, guardian of the city treasury. Following up the teachings of that wise philosophy Malay and his associates rounded up a bunch of laundry wagons yesterday and threatened to take off the wheels if the license was not forthcoming, which it was.

NEW STATE ENGINEER TAKES

Superintendent Nicholas was in Sparks yesterday looking over the company's interests there. Mr. Nicholas talked of the sewerage proposition from the engineering standpoint. Incidentally he spoke of the political situation and when George Hark's candidacy was mentioned, said: "George is a level-headed fellow with no wild cat ideas. He would make a good councilman for the city."

Mr. Nicholas will assume his duties as state engineer May 1st.

Heroic Conductor Sticks to His Train

Conductor W. Van Patton employed with the Southern Pacific at Sparks, is a hero. Not that he has availed a railway calamity or saved a beautiful woman from a mad dog. May be he has done all this and more, but he has done other things besides, and he is a hero. This is how it happened. The other day while guiding a freight train across the desert he received word over the telephone that he had fallen heir to an estate of $125,000. He managed to hold the instrument long enough to make a request for

SIGNALS PREVENT WINNEMUCCA WRECK

The efficacy of the block signal system was demonstrated again Monday when the danger signal halted a west bound merchandise freight and prevented a wreck that would doubtless have cost thousands of dollars and possibly human life. A serious wash-out incident to the heavy rains occurred at a point ten miles east of Winnemucca. The floods poured over the track, washing a ditch wide and deep enough to bury an engine. The oncoming freight knew nothing of it and would doubtless have run into it and piled up in a heap of wreckage, but the water rising over the rails short circuited the electric current controlling the signal and the signals showed danger. The brakeman went ahead to ascertain the cause, came upon the washout and the inevitable disaster was averted. A work crew was dispatched to the scene and the damage repaired after a short delay.

C. G. Young of the Barrel House, departed this morning to San Jose where he will spend about three weeks looking after his fruit orchard situated near the town of Campbell.

AN ORACULAR NEGRO PREDICTS THE FATALITY

Engine No. 3006, upon which Engineer Hampton rode to his death, is attracting considerable attention in the yards. Battered and wrenched beyond and resembling to an engine, it affords mute and terrible evidence of the power of the impact.

Concerning the wreck many incidents are related, of which there is one that, however difficult to listen to with seriousness, commands a passing second thought.

Brakeman F. E. B. Gates of the unfortunate train having breakfasted in the diner, took charge of the train while Conductor Knowles went to the breakfast. While at his meal the conductor sneezed, mostly that and nothing more. The colored waiter standing mute and ominous at a little distance approached the conductor and tapping him on the shoulder remarked in his negro brogue: "Mistah, you must sneeze at de table. When a man sneeze at de table some one sure gvin to die. Dar sure gvin to be a wreck mistah, sure gvin to be a wreck." "Go on man, what you talking about?" replied the conductor.

"How many times I's seen it come true. Dar sure gvin to be a wreck. Sombody gvin to die," and the colored waiter nodded his head apprehensively.

The conductor smiled and finished his meal, undisturbed, and as he was passing back through his train the engine took the siding. As they were digging the brave engineer from the ruins the negro waiter again approached the conductor and earnestly pulled his sleeve. "Wah'd I tell you, mistah? Never sneeze at de table mistah, never, never."

Conductor Knowles is a fearless man, but now in addition to his fearlessness he is superstitious.

BAILEY MAY NEVER BE BROUGHT TO TRIAL

Irving Bailey, the Reno youth who was arrested a few days ago as told in the Journal and accused of horse stealing, is now confined in the city jail at Sparks. He was removed from the Reno prison to answer the charge in the railroad town, for the theft is alleged to have been committed there.

But Bailey will perhaps never have a trial. Machabee, the liveryman who owned the horse and buggy that was sold in Reno, does not want to press the case, believing that Bailey is insane.

An examination by the lunacy commission may be held to determine the state of mind of the youth. He will probably be removed to the county jail here for the purpose.

THE EASTERN MARKETS

NEW YORK, April 16.—The conspicuous feature of the stock market today was the extreme dullness into which it fell. The downward tendency of the last few prices was checked and some recovery ensued. The consequence, however, was a condition bordering on stagnation. The demand which put up prices was attributed largely to account for the bear operators who have been attacking the market recently. That their buying received very small accession from outside sources is sufficiently attested to by the small aggregate sales of the day. A large proportion of the meager total was done in the last hour of the session when the rush to cover by shorts gained considerable animation, making a buoyant closing. There was slight reflection of any outside event in the movements of prices.

The copper stocks held the advance of a sharp rebound from recent depression by the copper metal in the London market and these shares, if American Smelting be included, were conspicuous in the day's upward movement of prices. The copper kept the same stocks in their company that have been conspicuous in all the speculation. The Harriman's, the U. S. and Reading made up the preponderance of the dealings. United States Steel also was dealt in in the customary proportion to its huge share bulk. The reaction late in the day gave the usual indication of a highly professional market.

Money on call continued easy in spite of some further large syndicate transactions, including a $300,000 payment on American Telephone Company convertible bonds and a $500,000 payment on General Electric new stock today.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Money on call easy, 2 1/2-3 per cent; ruling rate 2, closing bid 1 3/4 offered at 2. Time loans slightly firmer; sixty days 3 3/4-4 1/4 per cent; ninety days 4 1/2-5 1/4; six months 5 per cent. (Close: Prime mercantile paper 6 per cent.

Grain and Provisions

CHICAGO, April 16.—Reports of rain and snow in Kansas caused general selling today in the wheat market and brought about a decline of almost a cent a bushel.

The market closed weak. May opened 1-8c lower to 1-8c higher at 78 5/8-78c, sold off to 77 7/8-78c and closed at 78 1/8-1-8c.

May corn closed weak. May corn opened a shade higher at 47 1/2-48c sold off to 46 3/4-47c and closed at 47c.

May oats opened a shade higher at 42c, sold off to 41 1/2-42c and closed at 41 3/4-42c.

Provisions opened firm but later eased off on realizing sales. At the close May pork was off 12 1/2-13c; lard was off 2 1/2-2c and ribs were 2 1/2-3c off.

Boston Wool Quotations

POSTON, April 16.—The wool market continues extremely dull and there is a radical falling off in the price of deliveries on old contracts. Statistically the situation is strong, but as the domestic wools in heaviest supply are almost unsalable at the price asked, the market is satisfactory to the sellers. Activity in foreign clothing wools is slackening. Quotations: California, scoured basis, northern choice, 67 1/2-68c; northern good, 66 1/2-67c; middle country, 65 1/2-66c; southern, 62 1/2-63c; full free, 57 1/2-58c; Oregon, scoured basis, eastern No. 1

STOCKS, MINES and MARKETS

LONG LOST MINE OF SAN SABA IS FOUND AGAIN

HISTORY OF THIS PROPERTY WILL INTEREST NEVADANS.

C. L. Dignowity of Reno Was One of Those Who Made Futile Search for the Old Spanish Mine Which Contains a Wealth of Precious Metal.

C. L. Dignowity, Governor Sparks and other mining men of Reno were formerly interested in the mining field of Texas, and will no doubt recall the many searches which have been made in years past for the San Saba mine, which was supposed to be a jewel storehouse of precious metals. The following clipping from the San Saba News will be of interest to those who know its history:

"The press dispatches have already briefly told of the discovery in the Rio mountains, about twenty-five miles south of here, of an ancient Spanish mine by W. B. Chambers. Further investigation leaves little room for doubt that the mine is the long lost San Saba gold and silver property, which according to the musty records, contains ore of fabulous richness. Many expeditions have gone in search of this mine and thousands of dollars have been expended in trying to locate it.

"Mr. Chambers is a veteran miner and has had much experience throughout the western mining camps. He heard of the alleged existence of the San Saba mine several years ago, but it was not until recently that he began an active search for it. He obtained a copy of the old Spanish records relating to the mine, which are among the archives of the State of Coahuila, of which state Texas was once a part, at Saltillo, Mexico. These records describe the mine as an exceedingly large producer of rich gold and silver ore during the early part of the last century.

"It is stated in the records that more than 100 men were employed in the mine and that they were all attacked and massacred by Indians, who are believed to have covered up the shaft and to have effaced other evidences of the mine, so as to prevent its rediscovery. That the Indians did their work well is shown by the long years that have passed since then in which continual but ineffectual efforts were made to locate the hidden store of wealth.

"Mr. Chambers, in setting about his search, decided that the Rio mountains were more likely to be mineral bearing than the hills of Gillespie county, where most of the search had heretofore been made. He went to a point in the Rio mountains, located about seventy-five miles a little north of west of San Antonio and started to hunt for the hidden mine. He saw a pile of rocks which seemed to have been placed there by human hands and the thought occurred to him that these rocks might conceal the shaft of the famous mine. He secured assistance and the rocks were removed and the shaft of the mine was uncovered.

"Mr. Chambers exploited the mine in company with several men of that neighborhood. They discovered that the shaft opened into a large chamber at a depth of only twenty feet from the surface. In this chamber was a huge pile of skeletons, numbering eighty. These were the remains of the miners who were massacred by Indians at the time the mine was lost. In the same compartment were found a great many ancient tools, such as picks, shovels, drills, tamping bars, hammers and axes. More than fifty guns of ancient make were also found. These weapons, as well as the tools, are in good state of preservation.

"As further evidence that the mine is the famous San Saba property, Mr. Chambers has discovered in a canyon near the old shaft the ruins of the ancient smelting furnaces that were operated in connection with the mine. The ruin of the old crusher is a huge pile of stones, and there are four of these furnaces and their large capacity shows that the mine was a big producer of ore.

"The rediscovery of this mine has produced much excitement throughout this part of the state. Mr. Chambers has staked several claims adjacent to the property, and there has been a rush of other mining prospectors to the locality and all of the land for several miles surrounding the mine is being prospected.

"Mr. Chambers took a quantity of samples of ore from the mine and is having them assayed. They show great richness to the naked eye. The Spaniards seem to have taken out the richest ore near the surface. It is claimed by mining experts who have examined the property that all indications point to it becoming one of the richest and largest producers of ore in the southwest. According to the ancient records, the Spaniards took more than $2,000,000 worth of ore out of the mine during the few years that they worked it."

Charles L. Dignowity, of Reno, made several efforts to locate the San Saba mine years ago. He went to the expense of having a survey made from San Antonio in the direction and distance which the mine was said to be located from that city. When this survey was finished he spent several months hunting for the lost mine, but found no trace of it.

MONTEZUMA CAMP REVIVING FROM DECLINE OF EIGHTIES

WILL SOON ENTER SHIPPING LIST WITH HIGH GRADE ORES.

Active Development Shows That Once Famous Silver District Is Not Out of the Running and Is Assuming Life of Former Days.

The old Montezuma district, which in the early days of mining in Nevada attracted widespread attention by its enormous output of the precious metals, but which went down with the decline of silver in the 80's, is now rapidly regaining its prestige and from the activity being displayed and the fact that capital is seeking a foothold in the old-time bonanza camp, it is a certainty that before many months more it will be sending out its quota of high grade ore.

While the district is not having one of the "hurrah" booms, it shows a steady growth and at the present time nearly every property in the camp is being extensively developed. Not only this, but the values are being found and it is proven that as depth is attained the values increase.

M. Lennon, O. P. Posey and John M. Fairfield, who are associated with J. F. Mitchell in the Montezuma-Goldfield Mining Company No. 1, returned recently from an inspection of their interests, and they bring gratifying reports from the entire district.

When seen recently Mr. Fairfield informed the Review representative that the Montezuma-Goldfield was becoming better every day. The tunnel on the Wabaska claim has been driven in for a distance of 250 feet on the five-foot ledge. Samples of the ore taken from this ledge were brought to Goldfield for a test and in comparing them with the $200 and $300 ores taken from the Mohawk, the two could not be distinguished from each other. The contact in the tunnel shows lime and porphyry, the ledge matter being quartz, heavily impregnated with iron sulphides. The values from this ledge average better than $35 to the ton in gold, while picked samples from a stringer go as high as $95.

On the Last Chance, another claim belonging to the Montezuma-Goldfield, a shaft has been sunk to a depth of fifty feet. In going this depth three distinct and well-defined ledges, varying from eighteen inches to three feet in width have been cut. These ledges dip toward a contact which shows about fifty feet to the north of the shaft. There are several other cross ledges also trending toward the contact and the management is of the belief that when these ledges are all opened at depth they will form a junction and that an immense deposit of high grade ore will be encountered. The values from the ledges in the shaft on the Last Chance vary all the way from $5 to $40 to the ton in gold, silver and lead.

Another find which promises to develop into one of considerable consequence, and which is located on the same claim, was made on one of the cross veins leading toward the contact. The new discovery has not been opened to any extent as yet, but at the surface the ledge shows a good width and yields copper values to the tune of 32 per cent to the ton.

Mr. Fairfield stated that it would be the policy of the management to commence a crosscut at the present level and prospect the ledges. When the work of crosscutting is well started sinking will be continued and crosscuts will be run from both the 100 and 150 foot points. Eventually the Montezuma-Goldfield will be equipped with hoisting facilities and modern machinery, and nothing will be left undone to place the property on a paying basis.

Mr. Fairfield stated that there were no less than ten outfits at work in and around the immediate vicinity of the Montezuma-Goldfield—Goldfield Review.

The Excelsior mine on the Charleston range has twenty tons of zinc ore on the dump. In other times this property was worked for silver, but it now produces both minerals.

A Kodak for a Name
Manheim, Nevada's candy king, has just discovered a new candy and is making it in five flavors, putting it up in neat packages at 5 cents per lb. Call at Manheim's and get a free sample of this candy. Address all communications either to the Nevada State Journal or the Evening Gazette, Reno, Nevada.

Five hundred dollars will be paid for the return of the jewelry taken from the residence of P. C. Drescher at 1423 H Street, Sacramento, Cal., on the evening of February 21, 1907. Communicate with Wm. E. Klein, P. O. Box 65, Sacramento, Cal.

MINING NOTES

A camp is growing up at what is known as Packer Brown's lost mine, twenty-five miles west of Lovelocks, where William Cutler discovered a ledge of silver ore running $56 to $80 to the ton. There are reported to be in the vicinity enormous blowouts of lead carbonate, blackened chimneys of the metal fifty feet high, and the wide ledges marked by these are to be traced for five miles. Fifty claims have been located in the district. Hundreds of tons of the ore of a shipping quality are to be found on the surface. S. A. Greenwood, who located some of the ground, was offered $10,000 for his location, but refused.

A new company has taken over the old Keystone mine at Dolly Varden and propose active development. The property consists of twenty-three claims and is developed by five principal shafts. A smelter was erected on the property thirty years ago, but the methods of those days failed to derive a profit. The ore will be shipped to Salt Lake. The ore carry 7 to 22 per cent copper, 40 ounces silver and up to unknown values in gold. In one of the shafts at a depth of forty-five feet the vein carries silver, lead and copper in separate streaks, each containing one metal.

Railroad Springs is a new camp eighteen miles south of Goldfield, where very good copper prospects have been uncovered. The find was made by Rube Snyder. He has a six foot ledge, found a few feet below the surface. His assays run 27 1/2 per cent copper $1.36, $2 gold, and $18.18 silver, a total of $157.18 to the ton. There are some fifteen miners in the district. The strike referred to was made on property belonging to Herman Shroeder and Jim Grady. The Detroit Copper company has ground adjoining.

A party of Salt Lake mining prospectors have purchased the Ruby and Dunderburg Consolidated Mining company's property in the Eureka district. The deal includes the Pioneer group adjoining the above property on the west. The Ruby and Dunderburg is one of the famous properties of this district and is credited with a production of over $2,000,000. The new owners have already had several applications for leases on their holdings.

Sawtooth district is having its share of the season's boom and several new deals are pending in this camp. A new strike of $400 are has been made on the Dureya claims. There are ten showings of shipping ore at Sawtooth all surrounding the proposed townsite which will undoubtedly develop into one of the liveliest of Nevada camps.

The copper magnate, Giroux, has bought up over 100 claims near Mina, and is in the market for more. He is very enthusiastic over the outlook in that direction. Samples have been taken from the Excelsior, one of these properties that ran $30 to the ton of copper, with $8 in gold and silver. This was at fifty feet down and the values improving.

Ore has been found assaying as high as $165 on the Goldfield's Princess Mining company's property, near Bonanza. A twenty-five horsepower hoist has been ordered. The superintendent says they have a six foot vein. The district is forty miles south of Goldfield, and there are 150 miners and prospectors in the vicinity.

Searchlight district now has several shipping properties, the material on some of which runs into bonanza values. The Stanley-Forbes, located four miles east of Searchlight, has developed from a prospect into a bonanza mine. It has about 100 tons of ore on the dump that will average $50 per ton.

At the 200 foot level in the June Wonder shaft ore assaying nearly $150 per ton was encountered last week. The June Wonder is the deepest mine in Wonder district, the main shaft being down 200 feet. A gas-line hoist is expected to arrive this week, when the shaft will be extended to further depth.

At the Nevada-Manhattan mine the main tunnel, into the mountain 335 feet, is in 1111 ore. A big hoist has been ordered and will be installed immediately in the George group, where the strike was made, and where the vertical depth is about 250 feet.

Skidoo is now connected with Rhyolite by telephone, complete communication having been secured the past week.

SPANISH SPRINGS VALLEY.

In an article in Sunday morning's Journal written by Mr. Casper concerning the United Nevada Company's property in Spanish Springs Valley district it perhaps did not appear clear to some of the readers that the ore samples assayed from 2 to 15 per cent copper. The article should have stated also that the ledge on this property was exposed for 3,000 feet instead of 300.

RENO MINES ARE MAKING GOOD WITH GOLD BRICKS

ROCKY HILL PROPERTY IS WORKING FIVE-STAMP MILL

Three Gold Bricks Deposited With Washoe County Bank for Fifty Days' Run Proves Worth of Mine Seventeen Miles South of Reno.

It will not be strange to hear mining men speak of Reno mining district in the near future as a booming camp, as the mines about the vicinity of this city are certainly "making good." The Rocky Hill Mining company, the Reno Mizpah and others are being worked with good results. The Rocky Hill Mining company, operating its own five stamp mill and cyanide plant on its property seventeen miles south of Reno, yesterday deposited another gold brick with the Washoe County Bank in Reno. This mill has been running but fifty days and this makes the third brick to be turned out, making the total production in the three bricks $4,700. The five stamp mill was merely placed in operation to test the six ledges on the property, and the management is now satisfied that they have a real mine, and will add more stamps in the near future.

The management has also let a contract to run two crosscuts east from the lower workings which will cut five more ledges on this level. Over 6,000 feet of development work has already been done on the estate and the company is but beginning to develop its best ground. The corporation has also recently made its last payment of $8,500 on a half interest in three claims which they held under bond. This gives them clear title to 173 acres of fine mineral land. Many Reno people are interested in the Rocky Hill proposition.

STRIKE NEAR CARLIN

William B. Barney returned yesterday from a new district twenty-five miles north of Carlin where he located many claims in a hitherto unexplored region. Those interested with him are Judge Moore, E. L. Dempsey, Will Robinson and E. R. Mayhew of Reno who together with Barney have an interest in sixty claims in this new district. Barney went from here immediately upon the receipt of the information that this section contained valuable deposits which had not been located. Ole Elliott and his party also went in about the same time and Elliott is still on the ground.

Barney brought some supplies from a ledge from one of their claims which when panned leaves a string of course gold. Assays are now being had from these samples. Three large porphyry dykes traverse the property of the Reno man and all evidence point to the fact that a vast mineral area of good value has been disclosed.

As yet the district is unorganized, no town-site having been laid out. There are two saloons and a improvised hotel located there now.

The Red Boy shaft is down 290 feet and the last twenty-five feet has been in solid quartz, carrying 5 to 8 per cent copper. The Saratoga shaft is down about 310 feet, the rock still brecciated, slightly softer and breaking to better advantage than in Red Boy. Both companies will crosscut at 500 feet for the ledges which pitched out at about forty feet, carrying about $78 to the ton on Red Boy and $127 on Saratoga. Should the values continue to increase in Red Boy, both companies will undoubtedly find larger ledges with higher grade at 500 feet.

The Greenwater Red Boy and Saratoga companies have placed orders for new and heavier equipment, to cost about $7,500 each, and including two sixty-horse hoist and two Lagersoll-Sargent straight-line, belt driven compressors, for twelve to fourteen Wonder air drills, which will be delivered and installed immediately.

Reliable sources tell of a recent strike in the Montgomery Shoshone, which discloses remarkable values in free gold in a blind ledge of quartz, encountered a little below the 400 foot level in the double compartment shaft.

The Potosi mines, near Los Vegas, are regular shippers of lead and zinc ore, and they now have nearly 100 cars loaded ready for shipment to the eastern smelter upon completion of the Salt Lake washout.

BUILDING WILL BOOM IN ONE MORE MONTH

Stock of Lumber Is Sold Out in the Yards Now, But Early in May the Fall Cut of the Mountain Mills Will Be Shipped in

D. A. Shannon, a prominent builder of this city, stated yesterday afternoon that lumber cannot be procured from the yards in this city. He said that building operations are delayed awaiting the opening of the Nevada-California-Oregon railroad, bringing to the market the last fall cut.

While the prospective owners of homes here are mourning the prosperity that makes the completion of their houses a dream of the summer, the contractors and mill men are getting out "made-up" material for the mining camps. Five months is the time necessary for finishing an ordinary five room house under present conditions, but the carpenters are beginning to despair of ever completing an easily built home now.

"In one month the city will boom with activity in the construction line," stated Shannon. "Lumber is sold out in the yards, and the finishing grades are unobtainable. But when the mills in the Sierras are working again, the supply will be sent in here so fast that none of the contractors need despair."

"Train service, interrupted at the opening of the season, has seriously hampered the work of the contractors. Reno needs a lot of lumber. Everybody able to start a house is waiting for the time when the workmen can start without a sure delay coming when the labor is half-completed."

"During the coming summer, I predict that the amount of money spent for residences and business blocks here will surpass any sum ever expended in three times the same period."

As a Matron Miss Ethel Bacon Will Have Plenty to Cook With

Seventeen intimate girl friends of Miss Ethel Bacon, who is to be married April 24, attended the "kitchen shower" at the residence of Miss Beulah Herschler yesterday afternoon. So numerous were the gifts and so many necessary for the prospective bride to move them to her new home.

Every conceivable article of the kitchen was presented to the popular guest of honor. Frying pans, dish pans, boiling pots, scourers, sieves, strainers, baking powder and other articles dear to the housewife were carried and sent to the Herschler residence.

Refreshments were served for guests. Miss Bacon was congratulated and many expressions of happiness were tendered her. The decorations were green and white. The following guests were present:

Misses Ethel Bacon, Mary Bacon, Mabel Blakeslee, Maud Brambila, Edna Stoddard, Gertrude Hibbard, Elizabeth McCormack, Isabel Miller, Mabel Reid, Kate O'Neill, "Bobbie" O'Neill, Edna Soucheureau, Obis Soucheureau, Irene Peterson, Ruth Nickerson, Clara Ward and Beulah Herschler. The two latter girls were the hostesses.

AGITATOR BLAMED FOR ACTIONS OF I. W. W.

Agitator Shaw, the man who has made the labor organization known as the Industrial Workers of the World the most cordially hated of any in the west, was arrested Monday night in Tonopah, according to Editor W. W. Booth of the Bonanza, who arrived here yesterday. Shaw was taken in custody for fighting on the street. He was taken before Judge Brissell and released on $200 cash bail.

"Shaw has been in Tonopah for the last few days speaking on the street in defense of the union he represents. But his arguments became more anarchical each night. The better element, angry at the unreasonable statements, protested. But Shaw remained to repeat the offense. At last he was 'rotten-egged.' Two nights this performance was acted."

"Shaw was next arrested for the fight in which he engaged on the street. This judge before whom his preliminary trial will be held is sure to pronounce a sentence that will leave no doubt of the fearless officials of Tonopah. Brissell is not afraid to give the same justice to a member of the I. W. W. as to any other class."

FRENZIED LUNATIC TRIES TO ELUDE HER GUARDS

Sheriff Owens of Rhyolite arrived in this city yesterday with a patient for the Nevada state hospital for mental diseases after one of the most trying trips ever made across the desert. A corps of trained attendants were necessary to bring the patient, a miners' wife, here.

Dr. Gibson, superintendent of the asylum, disclaimed all knowledge of the case when first asked of the affair yesterday, but when pressed for information he consented to declare that the record of patients was not kept so he could not tell the name.

Several times during the trip here, the frenzied lunatic tried to escape from her guards. She was strapped to the car seat during the latter part of the journey.

There will be a called meeting of Reno Lodge, No. 13, F. & A. M. held at Masonic Temple on Wednesday, April 17, 7:30 p. m. For the purpose of work in the F. C. Degree. Sojourning brothers respectfully invited.

FIREMAN'S WATCH IS STOLEN AT SPARKS

L. Lovelock, who is a Southern Pacific fireman, reported to the police officials of Reno yesterday that his costly gold watch was stolen a few days ago. He believes that the article was pawned here, and he asks the department to investigate.

Lovelock stated that he was taking a bath at the railroad employees' lounge room at Sparks about April 12, when he left his watch in the building. A few moments after he discovered the loss, but on searching for the missing piece of jewelry, it was gone.

The memoirs are to be translated into English.

EDITORS MISS A FINE WEATHER IS CONDUCTIVE TO MOTORING

Henry Bartlett, editor of the Round Mountain Nugget, and W. W. Booth, who is responsible for the clever Tonopah Bonanza, should tie a string around their fingers to remind them of the things remaining to be done. Both of these boosters of Nevada received the notice of the press association meeting that was held here Monday.

Both of them were told of the good that was to be accomplished. Yet when the time came for the gathering they were just preparing to leave home. They reached here yesterday, one day late. But the disappointment was not generally noticed abroad. Bartlett and Booth left for the coast to cover their chagrin.

"A Doll's House," in which Miss Percy Haswell is to appear, has been played but once in this city, and then at a special matinee performance, during one of Richard Mansfield's engagements, when his wife, Beatrice Cameron, played the leading role of Nora.

ONE OF NEVADA'S BEST KNOWN STOCKMEN DEAD

JOHN J. ALEXANDER

GONE TO THE GREAT BEYOND

Funeral to Be Held Tomorrow Afternoon Under the Direction of the Masons, With Which Fraternity He Had Affiliated for Many Years

John J. Alexander, one of Nevada's best known cattle men, is dead and with the passing of his spirit from this earth a noted Mason, a pioneer of the state and Reno citizen's work is done. Alexander breathed his last after an illness of several days, resulting from a complication of diseases that have harassed him for several years. The family at the little home three miles below Reno are mourning the loss of a man they loved well, one who always worked for the interests of his friends and was known and liked by every old settler in Nevada.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock. The Masons will have charge of the services, and interment will be after the services in the temple here.

Born in Belfast, Maine, in 1841, John Alexander worked as a ship-bulldozer until the "go west" fever became strong in his veins. To the coast he journeyed with his brother, Lewis Alexander, in 1860, and three years later they had acquired great herds of cattle and were known as the largest owners in Nevada. In 1886 John Alexander came to Washoe county and located a few miles south of this city.

Forty-five years before his death Alexander was taken into the Masonic order. He joined at Virginia City. Since then he has always been a member of high standing in the order.

John Alexander was one of twelve children. Two brothers and a sister survive. Ruby Alexander, a brother, lives at Belfast, Me. Lewis Alexander, a brother, lives in this city, and Lucy Alexander Shannon, a sister, is a resident of Oakland.

SAVED FROM DEATH BY QUICK ACTION

Fred Krein and S. B. Crane by Presence of Mind Prevent Heavy Boulder from Dropping on Cooley and Dalzell When an Excavation's Walls Gave Way

Buried to their shoulders under two tons of earth in the sewer they were digging, Cooley and Dalzell, who are putting up a Turkish bath establishment on East Second street, escaped with their lives yesterday through the presence of mind displayed by Fred Krein and S. B. Crane.

The latter two men were standing at the side of the sewer when Dalzell and Cooley went below the ground. Barely had they shouted a warning of impending danger when the earth crashed down on them. Krein caught a ton-boulder with the end of a plank and, with the assistance of Crane held it from falling into the hole and crushing the lives out of the men. Then by-standers rushed to the scene and aided in the rescue.

Inch by inch the dirt was dug away from the living forms, but while the rescuers labored bits of loosened rock kept filling the excavation. For an hour the battle against death was waged on, and the victims of the accident were carried from the cavity alive.

Dalzell, Cooley and Krein have an interest in the Turkish baths, and they were working during the afternoon to help the workmen complete the construction. Crane, who is the agent of the New York Life Insurance Company, was talking to the men about getting a policy. As Cooley and Dalzell went to the bottom of the sewer at four o'clock, Crane said: "Let me write you out a little insurance before you take chances with your life."

Cooley and Dalzell smiled, and stepped to the bottom. Hardly had they turned their attention to the excavation when the earth with a roar fell on them. They were carried off their feet to the opposite side of the hole, and the loosened dirt almost smothered them.

Fumigation and Renovation for the Carnegie Library

Because of the fears of sickness prevalent in Reno, the library trustees of Reno have ordered that the Carnegie institution here be fumigated. This will probably be done during the latter part of the week. Librarian John Harold Hamlin stated yesterday that the building will be thoroughly renovated and any germs that may be the source of illness will be killed.

"The reading public is afraid to take out the books under present conditions," stated Hamlin. "We will attempt to remove this danger by cleaning the books and shelves."

The city health department ridicules the statements heard after many deaths that the cause is spinal meningitis, and the people are carried away by it without a moment's warning. According to the statistics published daily by the health officers the number of deaths from spinal meningitis is uncertain; and they are not nearly as numerous as the general public believes.

In his witty curtain speech Monday evening Wilton Mackay defended women theatergoers from the idea of managers that they wanted a love story, meaning the adolescent bleating of calf love. He denied that they insisted on seeing the beautiful leading juvenile pouring Bertha M. Clay love down the sweet young heroine's back. He told also a funny story of George Bernard Shaw, an Irishman who went to England to write plays for America, in which Shaw on being called on for a speech at the performance of one of his plays, began speaking to his acquaintances in the orchestra, which tired the other part of the house. So when he asked, "How do you like the play?" an unexpected voice from the gallery yelled "Rotten!" Shaw looked up and said, amiably, "I quite agree with you, but what are we two against so many?"

The two thousandth performance of "The Chorus Lady," in which Rose Stahl is appearing, was celebrated by the distribution of souvenirs in the form of silver almond composites.

SHACKS DESTROYED BY FLAMES

ENTIRE CITY IS ENDANGERED BECAUSE OF STRUCTURES ERECTED IN DEFIANCE OF LAW

The Olympic Skating Rink, Erected at a Cost of $16,000, Was Destroyed Last Night and the Adjoining Laundry Building Was Damaged, by Fire, the Origin of Which Is Unknown, But Which Found Easy Prey in the Shacks Erected Against the Provisions of the Ordinance—Pavilion Had Been Ordered to Be Roofed With Asbestos But the Order Had Been Disobeyed—What Owners Say

Fire, of unknown origin, threatening for a time the entire business section of Reno, destroyed the Olympic skating rink, damaged the United States laundry, burned two horses to death and broke the windows on adjacent buildings at 10:30 o'clock last night.

Starting in the Van Buren stable in the rear of the laundry, the flames caught on the rink, erected in violation of the city building ordinance, and in five minutes a loss of $15,000 was caused. The buildings destroyed were insured for about $12,000.

Firemen Endangered
Repeatedly during the fight against the spreading flames, the lives of the firemen were endangered by the falling walls. J. J. Hart, a hoseman, was buried in the debris when the front of the pavilion crashed to the street, but he extricated himself in time to escape death.

Again when the electric wires crashed to the ground, the nozzlemen working on the corner of Lake and Second streets were entangled in a mass of sputtering flames, but got out of the way without injury.

When the flames caught on the side of the pavilion the entire structure was ablaze before water could be turned on. Then the firemen began their heroic fight but the wind swept the flames through the length of the rink with lightning-like velocity.

Inflammable Roofing
Inflammable tarred paper roofing, heated to a high degree, exploded with violence, and the flames increased in fury. Windows crashed to the floor with the heat, and the building was doomed to destruction. But the chief of the fire department believes that if his order was obeyed when the rink was constructed the fire would have been confined to the small stable in which it started. Chief Webster was given samples of the roofing permitted to be used in construction work in Reno. One sample, the kind afterward put on the rink, lasted one minute under the blow pipe; the other, an asbestos product that was recommended for usage by the chief, withstood the test for five minutes, and still left one thickness.

Chief's Order Disobeyed
"I sanctioned an asbestos roof," stated Webster last night. "It was not used. By whose authority the order was evaded, I do not know. The building could have been saved if the elementary methods of protection were employed."

John Eyrou, a Frenchman laboring for the city, saw the flames in the Van Buren barn at ten o'clock. He gave no alarm, thinking that it was a light. Soon afterwards the flimsy building was being destroyed. The alarm was turned in by the spectators after several seconds' delay and the firemen responded with promptitude.

Horses Burned Alive
Charles Short of the Overland stables, seeing the flames and knowing that animal lives were endangered, rescued a valuable horse belonging to the Flanagan warehouse company. Two horses, the property of J. H. McCormack of the hotel bearing his name, were left to burn to death. An excited on-looker attempted to shoot them, but the flames closed in around the beasts obstructing the view, and they were left to die miserably in the little hut.

The west side of the Olympic rink was afire by the time the water was turned on, the flames jumping from the windows of the east wall and bursting through the roof in forty places. With a roar that could be heard several blocks the pavilion became alive with fiery tongues leaping skyward and carrying the sparks to adjoining property.

Hope Abandoned
Hope of saving the rink was abandoned at once, and the attention of the firemen was given to protecting the Overland stables and houses on the far side of Lake street. Blazing pieces of timber alighted on the roofs of the dwellings and lived barn while the firemen were moving the hose. A half hour's work saved these places from destruction.

Electric Wires on Fire
Over the heads of the firemen the electric wires, carrying the 23,000 volts for the use of Sparks, began to burn. Fred Brown of the Electric Company shut off the current before the firemen were electrocuted. Nevertheless the low-power wires dropped to the street one at a time and sizzled across the pavement in the throng until pronounced dead by the quick action of Brown.

Cattle's Men on Hand
Captain Cadie had a cordon of policemen around the burning buildings, and the crowd of curious spectators, surging around the structures from four sides, was held back while the firemen worked.

This is the first big fire since the Catholic church was burned two years ago. Members of the city council viewed the work of the flames with critical eye. Suggestions were heaped on their heads, and the throng generally condemned the policy that allowed the flimsy shack to be constructed in the heart of the city without regard for the safety of the property adjoining.

Cause Unknown
The cause of the fire is unknown. People who passed through the alley on which the barn was located, where the flames were first seen, stated that no one was observed around the structure. Whether a man slept there could not be learned last night. The flames started on the southeast corner of the shack and soon enveloped the entire building.

Garage Threatened
The fire at one time, while the front of the doomed skating rink was a mass of flames, swept in great sheets towards the Reno Automobile garage, and a small blaze was started on the roof of one of the cottages adjoining it which led to the belief that the garage was on fire. There was a lively scrimmage among those owning machines stored in the brick building to get them away to a place of safety.

Had this building, or its front doors, taken fire the loss would have been far heavier than it was. There is naturally a considerable quantity of gasoline always on hand in the garage, and the number of machines, which could not have been moved, would have been destroyed.

THE INSURANCE
Knowles and Koritz, the owners of the Olympic rink, stated last night that the insurance on the place was about $7,000, while their loss is $8,000. The original cost of the Olympic rink, built on ground leased from W. E. Van Buren, is given as $4,000. The fixtures bring up the remainder of the cost.

Soiled Clothes Damaged
The United States laundry was damaged to the extent of $5,000, and is fully covered by insurance. The machinery was not damaged. The walls of the structure, the clothes, office furniture and floors were injured by water and fire. Plate glass windows in the front were broken by the shock of the fire.

Fire Department's Work
A loss of $2,000 was sustained by the buildings in the adjoining lots. Their total destruction was averted merely by the excellent work of the men under Chief Webster.

WHAT OWNERS SAY
The laundry is owned by W. E. Van Buren, who also owned the rink.

Before the fire had died down he was found by a Journal reporter to whom he said:

"Yes, the buildings are mine, as is also the ground.
"I built the rink a few months ago, and leased it to Knowles and Koritz for a monthly rental and 75 per cent of the income; and it was a good paying business from the start, netting us better than $100 per day.
"The building was erected at a cost of $16,000. It contained an organ which cost us $3,500, and about $700 worth of skates.

Was Fully Insured
"The building and contents were fully covered by insurance in nine different companies.

"The loss of the income from the rink business will be the heaviest part of the loss to me as an individual.
"About ten years ago I was burned out of a building standing just back of where the rink stood, but that was a different sort of a fire from this.

Incendiaries Charged
"What do you mean by a different sort of a fire from this?"

"Why, I think this fire was incendiary. There is little doubt, in my mind, concerning that point.

as threats of such a thing have been made, and I believe some of them have been carried out with the result you see."

"There is an example of the difference between a fireproof building and a shack," was said. "What do you think of it?"

"There can be no doubt of the justness of the demand for fire-proof buildings within the fire limits," was the reply, "and I shall not rebuild anything of this nature on the ground, although it will without doubt be rebuilt in a much more substantial manner."

"Did you have a permit to erect that rink building?"

"I did have such a permit, and have it still. It is in writing and signed."

Werner Was Lucky
The piano and music store of Werner, which occupied the corner room in the front of the rink, was fortunately saved, and is intact, even to the sheet music, and although damaged, the loss will be slight.

E. Scott, the singer of illustrated songs at the Grand is a worker, and that fact and his friendship for Werner, who is away in Goldfield, stands the latter in good stead, as the singer was promptly on hand and helped to save the music and instruments, over which he guarded.

The refreshment room in the rink was leased to Shepard & Son of the busy city, who sustained a loss of about $50 in fixtures and stock.

Kid Shea, the wonderful infielder of the Truckee aggregation last season will be on Second base for the Lovelock team. Queen Victoria of Spain is a sad trial to her maids of honor. Educated in England, Her Majesty is an ardent believer in the virtue of fresh air and insists on having windows open at all hours. HYMERS' NAME CANNOT GO ON THE CITY TICKET

So Says Clerk Christie to Whom the City Council Left the Decision—Election Supplies Are Ordered and List of Candidates Sent Out

Unless an order of court is procured to enforce the demands of T. K. Hymers, the name of the candidate for city councilman will not be placed on the ballot for the election May 1. The list of candidates has been sent out, and the election supplies ordered. Hymers' name is not one of those for which the municipal voters will cast their choice.

In explanation of the reason for leaving Hymers off the ticket, City Clerk Christie stated yesterday that the council put it up to him for a decision; that Hymers did not file his petition in accordance with the law followed by the others; that he is under a bond as city clerk and that the listing of Hymers' name with the others would only cause probable contests and that the advice of several attorneys supports his stand.

"I do not see how I could place the name of T. K. Hymers on the ticket and observe the law at the same time," stated Christie. "It is strictly my duty to decide on whether I shall use my own judgment or not. I have been advised to omit the name, and await the further action of the petitioners. This course will be followed." The number of candidates for councilman, then, will be one short, and the report is, current on the street that several others that announced themselves as candidates will withdraw from the fight before the election is held. Hymers will probably be one of these through force of circumstances. He sent his petition asking to be placed on the ticket, and signed by three hundred voters to the office of the county clerk. A certified copy of the petition was taken to the city clerk's office several days afterwards. The former county commissioner believed that this action would save his candidacy.

TWO-YEAR-OLD BOY IS NEARLY CRUSHED BY CAR

Little Archie Griffith's Neck Was Under Wheel When Brakes Caused a Stop—Care Prevents Accidents

Run down by a Second street electric car and caught with his head under the wheel, Archibald Griffiths, the two-year-old son of Sherwood Griffiths, narrowly escaped with his life at four o'clock yesterday afternoon. The baby, toddling down the street and across the car tracks, was struck by the car as it approached, and before the motorman realized the danger the accident was inevitable.

Residents of the west end of the city said after the affair that the marvelous escapes of children every day are avoided solely by the care of the men in charge of the street car. The younger element have a habit of standing beside the track, and running across when the car approaches. The fender of the car was tied up so that it would not scrape the track. This allowed the body of the Griffiths child to be crushed against the wheel.

SHOPLIFTING CASES REPORTED TO POLICE

Extensive Operations at Sullivan Millinery, Palace Drygoods and Gray-Raid-Wright Stores Cause Officers to Believe Gang Is at Work

Several shoplifting cases have been reported to the police within the last few weeks, and the alleged culprits have been apprehended. The Sullivan millinery store was victimized by three clever women, and the Palace drygoods store was visited, and the Gray-Raid-Wright emporium was relieved of articles of value.

When the losses were discovered, the management reported the affair to the police department. The proprietors of the millinery store said they knew the women, knew their residence at least. The chief told them to send a warrant for the arrest, and if it was not paid a warrant for their arrest might be procured.

Evidently the women paid the bill when they were confronted with the fact that the theft was known. The chief has heard nothing subsequent about the case.

This is the first time in two years that extensive operations by shoplifters have been reported. The police believe that it is the female members of a gang of toughs in this city that are responsible for the crimes charged.

THE AIR BEFOULED BY DECAYING CARCASSES OF HOGS

NASTY WAY OF GETTING RID OF OLD CARRION

Health of Reno May Be Menaced by Methods Adopted and Officials Investigating to Find Out How Smells Can Be Smothered

On the road to Sparks, not many days ago, there is a place where passengers who have been over the road before and know what to expect, turn pale and reach for handkerchiefs and smelling salts when they approach it. This is near the passing switch of the electric line, just below the brewery, and the reason for the strange, weird smells which have the crowd near the railroad tracks has been turned into a burying place for carcasses, and the burying has been so poorly done that it might as well have been left undone.

A few weeks since a lot of hogs died in the stock yards. These were removed to the place designated and there buried by the section gang. It is said, under the orders of a railroad agent.

The carcasses were not deeply buried, being covered with a thin layer of earth, and this, since the warm weather has commenced, has dried out all there is left of it, certainly not enough to prevent the befouling and poisoning of the air by the decaying matter.

As summer advances the stench will become worse, unless steps are taken to prevent it, and the time is not far distant when not only the passengers to Sparks will suffer, but Reno as well.

This afternoon there will be an official investigation of the conditions existing, and it is expected that steps to remedy the evil will be taken at once.

PLUMBERS AND LATHERS STRIKE FOR UNION RULES

One of the rules of the Plumbers Union provides that if a man is discharged later than 4:45 on a working day, he shall be paid for half of the working day following his discharge. Last Saturday afternoon Foreman Evans of the Nevada Hardware Company discharged a plumber named Robert Buncel, after the time specified, and Monday the discharged plumber demanded pay for half that day, which was refused. A strike followed, the plumbers walked out.

The lathers recently demanded more pay from the plasterer bosses, which was refused, and yesterday a general walk-out followed the refusal to meet the demand. The strike may last some time as both sides are determined.

MORE WITNESSES AT INQUEST

Coroner's Jury in the Hampton Case Orders Attendance of Several Men Who Were at Brown's

The coroner's jury which was to have finished its investigation of the death of Frank Hampton, the engineer killed at Browns siding in Humboldt county on April 8, did not bring in a verdict yesterday, but adjourned till tomorrow. The attendance of additional witnesses has been ordered.

These witnesses are the rear brakeman of the extra freight, into the hind-end of which Engineer Hampton's train crashed with fatal results to himself, the section boss at that place, and the coal-heavers who were present at the siding when the wreck occurred.

So far the evidence has all substantiated that the switch through which No. 4 ran was opened by someone after the freight engine had finished coaling from the main line, and had backed again to where its train stood on the siding.

TELEGRAPHERS PROTEST AGAINST AWARD OF ARBITRATORS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—The Order of Railway Telegraphers has filed in the United States circuit court exceptions to part of the decision, arrived at by the board of arbitration that received testimony regarding the differences between the telegraphers and the Southern Pacific Company as to wages and hours. There were four points considered by the arbitrators, and two of these were decided against the telegraphers.

Whether the board of Railway Telegraphers should legislate for the train dispatchers, respecting rates of pay, hours of service, or otherwise, the arbitrators decided that they should not. The other points decided against the telegraphers was the elimination from operation of the schedule to be adopted of certain important agencies where the duties of telegraphers are paramount.

The telegraphers are protesting against the award respecting these two points, claim that the testimony was not properly taken.

Time to Act

THE destruction of the skating rink last night, regrettable as it is from the point of view of the owners, gives Reno a lesson from which the city council should not be slow to profit.

The rink was erected in defiance of the building laws of this city, as was pointed out to the council on Monday by City Engineer Stewart. These laws are lenient enough, as we all know, but easy as they are, they have not been obeyed. And for what reason? Because, in another case, involving another ordinance, a court, and not one of last resort, gave it as its opinion that the city council could not delegate its authority to public servants charged with the execution of the city ordinances. For no other reason that we know of, and we have made inquiry, a law that stands on the books of Reno has been deliberately violated.

If the law was not good, in God's name what was it kept on the books for, and why was there not a law adopted that would stand?

The public has a right to be somewhat impatient of the needless delay in adopting a valid law, if the present one is defective. Reno is a modern city and its residents try to be up-to-date, yet the other day, when we tried to find out who was responsible for the erection of two shacks in the heart of the business quarter in defiance of the city's safety, who would admit that he had given permission for the building of such perilous structures? Not a soul. It was a case of "pass the buck."

It was shown that the shacks, finally, had been erected without a shadow of authority. Just think of such a thing. Anyone could come along and erect a tent, or an inflammable shed or such a structure as was destroyed last night, alongside the finest building in town and the city officials felt that they could not move against it. What injunction is offered to men of means to erect fine structures, when they are afforded absolutely no protection in the shape of a strong fire ordinance, faithfully enforced?

Last night's fire probably teaches those who are in charge of our municipal affairs that procrastination is a dangerous thing. This city is too large and important and there is too much at stake to delay adopting a strong fire ordinance, simply because an election is close at hand. And that is the only reason we have heard given for the inaction of the city law-makers.

It might be pointed out, incidentally, that the city council had a fine well-drawn ordinance framed for its consideration some time ago, in the drawing-up of which City Attorney Stoddard, Chief of the Fire Department Webster and City Engineer Stewart spent three months, and which combines the best features of the law in the most progressive cities in this country. That ordinance was permitted to lie on the shelf, that it has been in force, no such fire as that of last night would have occurred.

That the present ordinance is inadequate, we are willing to admit. For instance, there are two men under arrest for erecting the shacks on Second street. Today they will appear in the police court and be fined. Then what becomes of the shacks? They stand and the men, having paid their fines, will go back and occupy the places just as before, making the law a mock and Reno a laughing stock.

The people will not stand for this sort of thing. If the present officials cannot act or will not act, because of an election, Reno is so aroused that there will be a revolution in municipal affairs. We have no doubt that the councilmen mean all right, but hell is paved with good intentions, and what Reno wants is men who will act. This is plain talk. It has to be. The occasion demands it.

Credit to Whom Due

SPECIAL credit is deserved by Chief Webster of the fire department for their work at the fire last night. Nor should Captain Cadle and his men be overlooked, for they did their duty well.

Each one's duty is expected, of course, but when the performance of that duty involves the risk of life, as it did last night, there are not many who would do as the firemen did and go into the midst of things, surrounded by wires that menaced them with a horrible death and with the tar roof exploding under their feet.

They did well and it is to their efforts that the fire was confined to a comparatively insignificant cost. Reno owes recognition to these men and we hope the city will give it.

Cleaning Up in Reno

PUBLIC commendation and hearty co-operation should be given to the ladies of the Century Club for their efforts in behalf of Reno, and now that they have arranged for a "clean-up day" for May 3, it is up to the people to lend a hand.

Reno certainly needs a cleaning—a good strong, vigorous one, with everybody helping. Let the streets and the alleys and the backyards—and the front yards, too, in some cases—be swept out and the rubbish burned. The snow of winter is gone, and rains are nearly over, and it is time to welcome the spring with a clean face.

So don't forget May 3. Put the date inside of a red circle on your calendar and make a place for it in your memory, so you will not be likely to forget it.

And, while on the subject of cleaning, what is the matter with having in kind of "clean-up day" every day in the year, especially down on the business streets? The street-sweepers go along any time from ten o'clock at night to four in the morning. Then, until six o'clock, the streets, with no one except a belated newspaper worker or policeman abroad, are just about too neat and sweet for anything.

You who come down town to work at eight o'clock would not believe it, perhaps, for you see the gutters littered with truck and papers that have been swept into the streets from the stores and therein lies the trouble. The stores are swept out, but instead of taking the rubbish into the back area and placing it in barrels for removal, everything is put into the public street. A wind comes along and then the papers are strewn everywhere and you would never know that the streets had once been swept as bare as a housefloor and only a few hours previously, at that.

Our merchants mean to help in the rebuilding of Reno and we know that it is only thoughtlessness on the part of their employees that has caused this practice to grow to its present proportions.

The Street Question

THE fire will of course bring the subject of the building ordinance uppermost in the affairs to be attended to by the city council, but the board should not overlook the subject of improved streets.

We offered a suggestion yesterday as to the immediate use of the road roller that the city owns.

While the roller is being put to the use for which it was intended when it was bought, the city should get some statistics as to the volume of street traffic by the square yard, to furnish it with an index as to the class of pavement required on the thoroughfares of the city. For example, the roadway in front of Commercial Row is uneven, sunken in spots, and shows the signs of wear at many places. In other words, a more substantial pavement is required than has been placed there. If the traffic at a given point is known, the laying of an inadequate pavement there can be avoided in the future.

But, whatever may be done, this subject of improved streets cannot be allowed to rest. We must have them. And we must have better country roads. Don't forget that.

RAILROAD MAN'S KICK

NEW ORLEANS, April 16.—Sir William Van Horn, chairman of the board of directors of the Canadian Pacific Railroad upon his return from Guatemala where he is building a railroad, said today: "My definition of railroad legislation is tinkering with a problem which no mind or set of minds can solve. I am operating in countries where there is no such thing as railroad legislation, for which I am indeed thankful. Legislation which seeks to reverse the order of things and directly or indirectly to block the great engines of railroad activity is stagnating the whole commercial life."

THREATENED CAR STRIKE

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—Though both sides to the controversy fought through their official heads to discuss it, there is definite information that the street car men of San Francisco have been for some days formulating a renewed demand for an eight hour day with $3 pay, to be made some time before the first of next month, and that the United Railroads is preparing to resist a serious strike if that should be the outcome.

A SENATORIAL DEADLOCK

MADISON, Wis., April 16.—Three ballots were taken tonight in the Republican caucus to select a candidate for United States senator to succeed Senator Spooner, but no change in the existing deadlock was made.

SOME VIEWS OF THE NATIONAL PRESS

National Sufficiency

(From the St. Louis Republic)
A London weekly newspaper which devotes much talent and space to literature is moved "to wonder that Americans are now writing their own books, instead of waiting for the genius of other lands to supply their needs." By "other lands," of course, England is meant. "For the benefit of the author of this brilliant idea it might be said that America is not now writing her own books, but is painting her own pictures, composing her own operas, sculpting her own statues, fashioning her own great buildings and almost, if not quite, manufacturing her own 'English butlers.'" America can draw its artistic life from within, should a high fence be built around the continent. The United States can get along without the rest of the world. The question is, can the rest of the world get along without the United States? Especially, can England do without the United States? So far as writing their own books is concerned, Americans do that, and also write for thousands and thousands of British readers. Every successful American book has almost as wide a sale in London as in New York. Every one of the "six best sellers" has its British edition. Many of them have their Canadian and Australian editions. And with the drama it is the same story. The United States have ceased to depend on over-the-sea writers for their plays. Instead, they send American players, appearing in American productions, to entertain and instruct the English in their beloved "Lunnon." Witness the eagerness with which the British are anticipating the announced visit of Sothern and Marlowe to their shores. The London Portnightly self-consciously remarks that 180,000 copies of Dickens' works were sold in the United States last year. It would be interesting to know how many copies of Poe and Hawthorne were sold in England in the same period. The younger of the two great English-speaking countries has ceased to depend upon the other for its artistic being. It gives as much as it takes.

Roosevelt Not Indispensable

(Cleveland Leader Republican)
No reader of the Leader can doubt its loyalty to the president and to the principles of popular government which have become associated with his administration and known by his name. This paper has been one of his most consistent and thoroughgoing supporters in every step he has taken for the "square deal." It has applauded his services in the great cause of international peace. It has rejoiced in his buoyant, unfailing, hearty Americanism; his hard fighting in behalf of honesty and fair play; his whole enthusiastic inspiring personality.

But the Leader must confess to some impatience with the form of hero worship which pictures any man, even Theodore Roosevelt, as indispensable to the American nation. No one ought ever to be so magnified that his country is relatively belittled. The president would be the first to insist upon this point. He is an American who finds the United States so much bigger and greater and more powerful than any man that it is a wanton distortion of the fitness and balance of things to picture the most useful American as the one hope of the republic. President Roosevelt is not necessary to keep the government of the American republic in the people's hands. He is not the only man who can baffle and rout the forces of corruption. He has co-workers, friends and loyal followers who could take up his work where he expects to leave it when he retires from the White House, and carry on the people's business to the satisfaction of honest citizens. Roosevelt is not indispensable, though the principles of civic righteousness for which he stands are the life of the nation.

The Disarmament Idea

(New Orleans Picayune)
If the powers opposed to limitation of armaments were to take Great Britain seriously and propose that the Royal strength to a force more on a parity with the navies of other countries, the insincerity of the whole British proposition for limitation of armaments would become at once apparent. No British ministry would dare to accept such a proposition, as the British electors, always jealous of their country's commercial supremacy, would promptly drive out of office political leaders who might have the temerity to talk of weakening the country's naval strength.

The other powers who propose to take part in "The Hague conference" are perfectly aware of Great Britain's insincerity in the matter of limitation of armaments, hence their unwillingness to waste time in discussing a proposition that can be productive of no practical results. Even Japan does not propose to waste time on the limitation of armaments proposition, and she is not only employing all her own shipyards in the construction of warships, but she has actually placed a contract in England for the construction of a 22,000-ton battleship. Brazil, another of the countries to take part in "The Hague conference," has closed a contract with a British firm for three 18,000-ton battleships and twenty other warships of various types. These facts, together with the energy being displayed by Italy, France and Germany, as well as Russia, in increasing their fleets, make the limitation of armaments proposition look ridiculous.

(Baltimore American)
James Bryce, in his "Chicago address," gave free play to fancy and painted for the delectation of his auditors the city beautiful as it had been conceived by those who would have the municipality invest its tax receipts in art galleries and amusement enterprises. It is an entrancing outlook, that of fine cities in which free music, free art, free amusement and the like shall be found in association with driveways buttressed by stately colonnades, canals flowing through and under the streets, fairylike roof gardens, recreation grounds, boating lakes and swimming pools. It is a beautiful picture, and the socialists have painted it many times over. Pleasure, a flood of delight, unlimited amusement, is an attractive ideal to set up before the minds of many persons as the highest end of municipal activity, but it will not quite meet the Spartan-like notions of the advocates of the strenuous life and of primitive simplicity of character and the cultivation of individuality.

It remains a fact that the hard places of life are still the most productive of the commanding type of men in public affairs. It is the arts, the business and all the higher walks of life. The world has held its experience of hanging-garden cities, of cities of birds, music and frivolity, of cities of wealth and luxury, and the record of such has invariably been decadence. But so long as the city beautiful and the city of delights can be created by private enthusiasm and contributions from the purses of opulent citizens rather than by tax draft there is no reason to set a limit upon the amount of delectation that may creditably be installed into city life. In such cases the result would represent an overjoy of the prosperity of the few for the enjoyment of the many. Even pleasure may pall upon the taste and its pursuit has the certain result of making the tasks of life appear irksome. When this feeling becomes general all the ornate-pality would not serve to cover up the diseases that would crop out in the life of the people. It is well enough as an after-dinner sentiment to say that "the modern city should be remodeled to produce the signs and sounds and beauties of nature that are the basis of poetry," but in practical effect, whenever the esthetic cult has had full swing, it has invariably played havoc with the sturdier graces of city life that do not flourish under exotic conditions.

When We All Look Alike

(Chicago Inter Ocean)
The United States government, through the medium of the Agricultural department, has given official sanction to the following prescription for getting thin, if you are fat: "Eat little, sleep little and drink less, and for getting fat, if you are thin: 'Drink all you can, eat all you can, and sleep as much as you can.' There is nothing more beautifully beneficent, in some respects, than a government which is always reaching out the tendrils of its paternal affection toward its children, and showing them how to be better and happier, thinner or fatter, as the case may be.

In the present instance, the object in view is to instruct us how to help ourselves when we are weighing too much or too little, when we are attracting undue attention because of our chubbiness, or, on the other hand, when our buttons won't stay on or the famine expression on our faces won't come off. Naturally, in order that we shall all be equally fat and equally thin, that we may all weigh the same and feel the same and look practically the same, we must, if we be fat, be prepared to make some sacrifices.

We must not drink a drop of water or any other liquid for one hour before eating nor until an hour has elapsed after eating. Our breakfast must consist of eggs, toast and coffee or cocoa, without sugar. "One little cup of consommé, or one little square of meat, must do for luncheon. However, as a special favor, we may occasionally have a little spinach or cucumber."

President Roosevelt was desirous of preserving to the United States the herd, comprising half of all the bison surviving in this country, but no appropriation was made by the government for the purpose.

INDIAN PRINCESS IS JAILED BY MALAY

Chief Malay and his vigilant force have induced a number of swells to become temporary guests at the Hotel de Surveillance back of the butcher shop. Among those whose presence has honored the popular resort are Calico Ann, a princess of the blood of Winnemucca, and Thundering Stormcloud a worthy warrior of the tribe of Haha tra la.

Previous to their brief residence at the hotel of the lock they were in the fashionable quarters known as Tin Can Ridge. The reason why they became the guests Malay is not so easy to tell. The ancestors of the visitors acquired an appetite for a certain white man's beverage called fire water. Drinking too much of this refreshment results in a desire to yell and scratch and pull hair and it was to overcome this acquired condition that the guests registered at the hotel. The bill amounted to ten dollars each, which will be paid in cash, not "Touch your pocket book and there's your friend," says Chief Malay, guardian of the city treasury. Following up the teachings of that wise philosophy Malay and his associates rounded up a bunch of laundry wagons yesterday and threatened to take off the wheels if the hearse were not forthcoming, which it was.

NEW STATE ENGINEER TALKS

Superintendent Nicholas was in Sparks yesterday looking over the company's interests there. Mr. Nicholas talked of the sewerage proposition from the engineering standpoint. Incidentally he spoke of the political situation and when George Harkness was mentioned, said "George is a level-headed fellow with no wild cat ideas. He would make a good councilman for the city."

Mr. Nicholas will assume his duties as state engineer May 1st.

SIGNALS PREVENT WINNEMUCCA WRECK

The efficacy of the block signal system was demonstrated again Monday when the danger signal halted a west bound merchandise freight and prevented a wreck that would doubtless have cost thousands of dollars and possibly human life. A serious wash-out incident to the heavy rains occurred at a point ten miles east of Winnemucca. The floods poured over the track, washing a ditch wide and deep enough to bury an engine. The oncoming freight knew nothing of it and would doubtless have run into it and piled up in a heap of wreckage, but the water rising over the rails short circuited the electric current controlling the signal and the signal showed danger. The brakeman went ahead to ascertain the cause and upon the washout and the otherwise inevitable disaster was averted. A work crew was dispatched to the scene and the damage repaired after a short delay.

SPARKS PERSONALS

F. X. Raueh, and wife of Reno, visited last night in Sparks at the home of W. B. Sisson.

Passenger brakeman H. E. Mohr has resigned and will go with his family to San Francisco.

Engineer E. H. Richmond has been transferred to Rocklin. Mr. Richmond's family are at Rocklin and the transfer was requested.

F. M. Evans a Delta Kappa Epsilon man from Berkeley, is in Sparks with his family. He may become a resident if accommodations can be obtained.

C. G. Young of the Barrel House, departed this morning to San Jose where he will spend about three weeks looking after his fruit orchard situated near the town of Campbell.

AN ORACULAR NEGRO PREDICTS THE FATALITY

Engine No. 3006, upon which Engineer Hampton rode to his death, is attracting considerable attention in the yards. Battered and wrenched beyond and resembling to an engine, it affords mute and terrible evidence of the power of the impact.

Concerning the wreck many incidents are related, of which there is one that, however difficult to listen to with seriousness, commands a passing second thought. Brakeman F. H. Gates of the unfortunate train having breakfasted in the diner, took charge of the train while Conductor Knowles went to his breakfast. While at his meal the conductor sneezed merely that and nothing more. The colored waiter standing mute and ominous at a little distance approached the conductor and tapping him on the shoulder remarked in his negro brogue: "Mistah, you mus' nerch sneeze at de table. Der sure givin to be trouble. Wh'n a man sneeze at de table some one sure givin to die. Der sure givin to be a wreck mistah sure givin to be a wreck." "Go on man, what you talking about," replied the conductor.

"How many times it even it come true. Der sure givin to be a wreck. Some body givin to die" and the colored waiter nodded his head apprehensively.

The conductor smiled and finished his meal, undisturbed, and as he was passing back through his train the engine took the siding. As they were digging the brave engineer from the ruins the negro waiter again approached the conductor and gently pulled his sleeve. "What'd I tell you, mistah? Never sneeze at de table, mistah, nerch, never!"

Conductor Knowles is a feathery man, but now in addition to his featheryness he is superstitious.

BAILEY MAY NEVER BE BROUGHT TO TRIAL

Irving Bailey, the Reno youth who was arrested a few days ago as told in the Journal and accused of horse stealing, is now confined in the city jail at Sparks. He was removed from the Reno prison to answer the charge in the railroad town, for the theft is alleged to have been committed there.

But Bailey will perhaps never have a trial. Machabee, the liverman who owned the horse and buggy that was sold in Reno, does not want to press the case, believing that Bailey is insane.

An examination by the lunacy commission may be held to determine the state of mind of the youth. He will probably be removed to the county jail here for the purpose.

THE CHICAGO SCHEDULE

The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and Order of Railway Conductors are not satisfied with their schedules recently fixed at the Chicago conference and another conference is to be held at Oakland this week, at which schedules will be considered and changes will be submitted to the company. F. L. Updike and J. L. Palmer will represent the orders at the conference and have gone to the Bay City for the purpose. Before leaving they said there would be no friction between the orders and the company.

Heroic Conductor Sticks to His Train

Conductor W. Van Patton employed with the Southern Pacific at Sparks, is a hero. Not that he has averted a railway calamity or saved a beautiful woman from a mad dog. May be he has done all this and more, but he has done it by things besides, and he is a hero. This is how it happened. The other day while guiding a freight train across the desert he received word over the telephone that he had fallen heir to an estate of $125,000. He managed to hold the instrument long enough to make a request for

THE EASTERN MARKETS

NEW YORK, April 16.—The conspicuous feature of the stock market today was the extreme dullness into which it fell. The downward tendency of the last few prices was checked and some recovery ensued. The consequence, however, was a condition bordering on stagnation. The demand which put up prices was attributed largely to account for the hour operators who have been attacking the market recently. That their buying received very small accession from outside sources is sufficiently attested to by the small aggregate sales of the day. A large proportion of the meager total was done in the last hour of the session when the rush to cover by shorts gained considerable animation, making a buoyant closing. There was slight reflection of any outside event in the movements of prices.

The copper stocks held the advantage of a sharp rebound from recent depression by the copper metal in the London market and these shares, if American Smelting be included, were conspicuous in the day's upward movement of prices. The coppers kept the same stocks in their company that have been conspicuous in all the speculation. The Harriman's, the U.S. Steel and Reading made up the preponderance of the dealings. United States Steel also was dealt in in the customary proportion to its huge share bulk. The reaction late in the day gave the usual indication of a highly professional market.

Money on call continued easy in spite of some further large syndicate transactions, including a $30,000,000 payment on American Telephone convertible bonds and a $5,000,000 payment on General Electric new stock today.

Commercial Paper

NEW YORK, April 16.—Money on call easy, 2 1/2-3 per cent, ruling rate 2, closing bid 1 3/4 offered at 2. Time loans slightly firmer, sixty days 3 3/4-4 1/2 per cent, ninety days 4 1/2-5 1/4, six months 5 per cent. Close Prime mercantile paper 6 per cent.

Grain and Provisions

CHICAGO, April 16.—Reports of rain and snow in Kansas caused general selling today in the wheat market and brought about a decline of almost of a cent a bushel. The market closed weak. May opened 1 1/2-7/8, sold off to 77 7/8-c and closed at 78 1/8-c. May corn opened a shade higher at 47 1/2-c sold off to 48 3/4-c and closed at 47c. May oats opened a shade higher at 44c, sold off to 43 1/2-c and closed at 43 3/4-c.

Provisions

Provisions opened firm but later eased off on realizing sales. At the close May pork was off 12 1/2-c; lard was off 2 1/2-c and ribs were 2 1/2-c off.

Boston Wool Quotations

BOSTON, April 16.—The wool market continues extremely dull and there is a radical falling off in the price of deliveries on old contracts. Statistically the situation is strong, but as the domestic wools in heaviest supply are almost unsalable at the price asked, the market is satisfactory to the sellers. Activity in foreign clothing wools is slackening. "BLUE DEVILS"
Get Rid of Indigestion and Things Will Look Bright and Joyous.

Even in the present era of prosperity and good times everything appears black to those people who are suffering wretchedly from some form of indigestion. When digestion is quick, complete and easy, there is a joyous and hopeful outlook, but indigestion causes depression.

The want of a safe, effective cure for sick headache, indigestion and stomach troubles, was always felt until the prescription known as M-I-O-na stomach tablets was put up in its popular form and proved its invariable success in the many forms of indigestion.

After a few days use of M-I-O-na stomach tablets the headache, dizzy feeling, drowsiness, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, nervousness, sleeplessness, distress after eating—all these symptoms of a weak stomach—will disappear and perfect digestion and a good skin will show that the vital machinery is once more running smoothly.

M-I-O-na is to be taken before each meal and it will stimulate the secretory and digestive juices and strengthen the whole of the digestive system so that the unpleasant feeling will be absent and indigestion prevented. M-I-O-na is a safe, effective cure and only in a neat metal box convenient for the vestpocket and cost 50 cents. The Cann Drug Co. have seen so many cures made by M-I-O-na stomach tablets that they give a guarantee with every box that the money will be refunded if the remedy fails to give satisfaction.

LONG LOST MINE MONTEZUMA CAMP OF SAN SABA IS FOUND AGAIN

HISTORY OF THIS PROPERTY WILL INTEREST NEVADANS.

C. L. Dignowity of Reno Was One of Those Who Made Futile Search for the Old Spanish Mine Which Contains a Wealth of Precious Metal.

C. L. Dignowity, Governor Sparks and other mining men of Reno were formerly interested in the mining field of Texas, and will no doubt recall the many searches which have been made in years past for the San Saba mine, which was supposed to be a jewel storehouse of precious metals. The following clipping from the San Saba News will be of interest to those who know its history:

"The press dispatches have already briefly told of the discovery in the Rio mountains, about twenty-five miles south of here, of an ancient Spanish mine by W. B. Chambers. Further investigation leaves little room for doubt that the mine is the long lost San Saba gold and silver property, which according to the musty records, contains ore of fabulous richness. Many expeditions have gone in search of this mine and thousands of dollars have been expended in trying to locate it.

"Mr. Chambers is a veteran miner and has had much experience throughout the western mining camps. He heard of the alleged existence of the San Saba mine several years ago, but it was not until recently that he began an active search for it. He obtained a copy of the old Spanish records relating to the mine, which are among the archives of the State of Coahuila, of which state Texas was once a part, at Saltillo, Mexico. These records describe the mine as an exceedingly large producer of rich gold and silver ores during the early part of the last century.

It is stated in the records that more than 100 men were employed in the mine and that they were all attacked and massacred by Indians, who are believed to have covered up the shaft and have effaced other evidences of the mine, so as to prevent its discovery. That the Indians did their work well is shown by the long years that have passed since then in which continual but ineffectual efforts were made to locate the hidden store of wealth.

"Mr. Chambers, in setting about his search, decided that the Rio mountains were more likely to be mineral bearing than the hills of Coahuila, where most of the search had heretofore been made. He went to a point in the Rio mountains, located about seventy-five miles a little north of west of San Antonio and started to hunt for the hidden mine. He saw a pile of rocks which seemed to have been placed there by human hands and the thought occurred to him that these rocks might conceal the shaft of the famous mine. He secured assistance and the rocks were removed and the shaft of the mine was uncovered.

"Mr. Chambers exploited the mine in company with several men of that neighborhood. They discovered that the shaft opened into a large chamber at a depth of only twenty feet from the surface. In this chamber was a huge pile of skeletons, numbering eighty. These were the remains of the miners who were massacred by Indians at the time the mine was lost. In the same compartment were found a great many ancient tools, such as picks, shovels, drills, hammer bars, hammers and axes. More than fifty guns of ancient make were also found. These weapons, as well as the tools, are in good state of preservation.

"As further evidence that the mine is the famous San Saba property, Mr. Chambers has discovered in a canyon near the old shaft the ruins of the ancient smelting furnace that were operated in connection with the mine. The ruins of the old ore crusher is also still standing. There were four of these furnaces and their large capacity shows that the mine was a big producer of ore.

"The rediscovery of this mine has produced much excitement throughout this part of the state. Mr. Chambers has staked several claims adjacent to the property and there has been a rush of other mining prospectors to the locality and all of the land for several miles surrounding the mine is being prospected.

"Mr. Chambers took a quantity of samples of ore from the mine and is having them assayed. They show great richness to the naked eye. The Spaniards seem to have taken out the richest ore near the surface. It is claimed by mining experts who have examined the property, that all indications point to it becoming one of the richest and largest producers of ore in the southwest. According to the ancient records, the Spaniards took more than $2,000,000 worth of ore out of the mine during the few years that they worked it."

Charles E. Dignowity, of Reno, made several efforts to locate the San Saba mine years ago. He went to the expense of having a survey made from San Antonio in the direction and distance which the mine was said to be located from that city. When this survey was finished, he spent several months hunting for the lost mine, but found no trace of it.

REVIVING FROM DECLINE OF EIGHTIES

WILL SOON ENTER SHIPPING LIST WITH HIGH GRADE ORES.

Active Development Shows That Once Famous Silver District Is Not Out of the Running and Is Assuming Life of Former Days.

The old Montezuma district, which in the early days of mining in Nevada attracted widespread attention by its enormous output of the precious metals, but which went down with the decline of silver in the '80's, is now rapidly regaining its prestige and from the activity being displayed and the fact that capital is seeking a foothold in the old-time bonanza camp it is a certainty that before many months more it will be sending out its quota of high grade ore.

While the district is not having one of the "hurrah" booms, it shows a steady growth and at the present time nearly every property in the camp is being extensively developed. Not only this, but the values are being found and it is proven that as depth is attained the values increase.

M. Lennon, O. P. Posey and John M. Fairfield, who are associated with J. P. Mitchell in the Montezuma-Goldfield Mining Company No. 1, returned recently from an inspection of their interests, and they bring gratifying reports from the entire district.

When seen recently Mr. Fairfield informed the Review representative that the Montezuma-Goldfield was becoming better every day. The tunnel on the Wabaska claim has been driven in for a distance of 250 feet on the five foot ledge. Samples of the ore taken from this ledge were brought to Goldfield for a test and in comparing them with the $200 and $300 ores taken from the Mohawk, the two could not be distinguished from each other. The contact in the tunnel shows lime and porphyry. A ledge made of being quartz heavily impregnated with iron sulphides. The values from this ledge average better than $35 to the ton in gold, while picked samples from a stringer go as high as $95.

On the Last Chance, another claim belonging to the Montezuma-Goldfield, a shaft has been sunk to a depth of fifty feet. In going to the three foot ledge, well-defined ledges, varying from eighteen inches to three feet in width have been cut. These ledges dip toward a contact which shows about fifty feet to the north of the shaft. There are several other cross ledges also trending toward the contact and the management is of the belief that when these ledges are all opened at depth they will form a junction and that an immense deposit of high grade ore will be encountered. The values from the ledges in the shaft on the Last Chance vary all the way from $5 to $40 to the ton in gold, silver and lead.

Another find which promises to develop into one of considerable consequence, and which is located on the same claim, was made on one of the cross veins leading toward the contact. The new discovery has not been opened to any extent as yet, but at the surface the ledge shows a good width and yields copper values to the tune of 32 per cent to the ton.

Mr. Fairfield stated that it would be the policy of the management to commence a crosscut at the present level and prospect the ledge. As the work of crosscutting is well started sinking will be continued and crosscuts will be run from both the 100 and 150 foot points. Eventually the Montezuma-Goldfield will be equipped with hoisting facilities and modern machinery, and nothing will be left undone to place the property on a paying basis.

Mr. Fairfield stated that there were no less than ten outfits at work in and around the immediate vicinity of the Montezuma-Goldfield—Goldfield Review.

The Excelsior mine on the Charleston range has twenty tons of zinc ore on the dump. In olden times this property was worked for silver, but it now produces both minerals.

MINING NOTES

A camp is growing up at what is known as Poker Brown's lost mine, twenty-five miles west of Lovelocks, where William Cutler discovered a ledge of silver ore running $55 to $80 to the ton. There are reported to be in the vicinity enormous blowouts of lead carbonate, blackened chimneys of the metal fifty feet high, and the wide ledges marked by these are to be traced for five miles. Fifty claims have been located in the district. Hundreds of tons of the ore of a shipping quality are to be found on the surface. S. A. Greenwood, who located some of the ground, was offered $10,000 for his location, but refused.

A new company has taken over the old Keystone mine at Dolly Varden and propose active development. The property consists of twenty-three claims and is developed by five principal shafts. A smelter was erected on the property thirty years ago, but the methods of those days failed to derive a profit. The ore will be shipped to Salt Lake. The ores carry 7 to 22 per cent copper, 40 ounces silver and up to unknown values in gold. In one of the shafts at a depth of forty-five feet the vein carries silver, lead and copper in separate streaks, each containing one metal.

Railroad Springs is a new camp eighteen miles south of Goldfield, where very good copper prospects have been uncovered. The find was made by Rube Snyder. He has a six foot ledge, found a few feet below the surface. His assays run 27 1/2 per cent copper $1.38, 32 gold, and $18.18 silver, a total of $157.13 to the ton. There are some fifteen miners in the district. The strike referred to was made on property belonging to Herman Shroeder and Jim Grady. The Detroit Copper company has ground adjoining.

A party of Salt Lake mining prospectors have purchased the Ruby and Dunderburg Consolidated Mining company's property in the Eureka district. The deal includes the Flodistrict. The group adjoining the above property on the west. The Ruby and Dunderburg is one of the famous properties of this district and is credited with a production of over $2,000,000. The new owners have already had several applications for leases on their holdings.

Sawtooth district is having its share of the season's boom and several new deals are pending in this camp. A new strike of $900 a ton has been made on the Duryea claims. There are ten showings of shipping ore at Sawtooth all surrounding the proposed townsite which will undoubtedly develop into one of the liveliest of Nevada camps.

The copper magnate, Giroux, has bought up over 100 claims near Mina, and is in the market for more. He is very enthusiastic over the outlook in that direction. Samples have been taken from the Excelsior, one of the best properties that ran $30 to the ton of copper, with $8 in gold and silver. This was at fifty feet down and the values improving.

Ore has been found assaying as high as $165 on the Goldfield's Princess Mining company's property, near Bonanza. A twenty-five horsepower hoist has been ordered. The superintendent says they have a six foot ledge. The district is forty miles south of Goldfield, and there are 150 miners and prospectors in the vicinity.

Searchlight district now has several shipping properties, the material on some of which runs into bonanza values. The Stanley-Forbes, located four miles east of Searchlight, has developed from a prospect into a bonanza mine. It has about 100 tons of ore on the dump that will average $50 per ton.

At the 200 foot level in the June Wonder shaft ore assaying nearly $150 per ton was encountered last week. The June Wonder, the deepest mine in Wonder district, the main shaft being down 200 feet. A gasoline hoist is expected to arrive this week, when the shaft will be extended to further depth.

At the Nevada-Manhattan mine the main tunnel, into the mountain 335 feet, is in 1111 ore. A big hoist has been ordered and will be installed immediately in the George group, where the strike was made, and where the vertical depth is about 250 feet.

Skidoo is now connected with Rhyolite by telephone, complete communication having been secured the past week.

SPANISH SPRINGS VALLEY.

In an article in Sunday morning's Journal written by Mr. Casper concerning the United Nevada Company's property in Spanish Springs Valley district it perhaps did not appear clear to some of the readers that the ore samples assayed from 2 to 15 per cent copper. The article should have stated also that the ledge on this property was exposed for 3,000 feet instead of 300.

RENO MINES ARE MAKING GOOD WITH GOLD BRICKS

ROCKY HILL PROPERTY IS WORKING FIVE-STAMP MILL

Three Gold Bricks Deposited With Washoe County Bank For Fifty Days' Run Proves Worth of Mine Seventeen Miles South of Reno.

It will not be strange to hear mining men speak of Reno mining district in the near future as a booming camp, as the mines about the vicinity of this city are certainly "making good." The Rocky Hill Mining company, the Reno Mizpah and others are being worked with good results. The Rocky Hill Mining company, operating its own five stamp mill and cyanide plant on its property seventeen miles south of Reno, yesterday deposited another gold brick with the Washoe County Bank in Reno. This mill has been running but fifty days and this makes the third brick to be turned out, making the total production in the three bricks $4,700. The five stamp mill was merely placed in operation to test the six ledges on the property, and the management is now satisfied that they have a real mine, and will add more stamps in the near future.

The management has also let a contract to run two crosscuts east from the lower workings which will cut five more ledges on this level. Over 6,000 feet of development work has already been done on the estate and the company is but beginning to develop its best ground. The corporation has also recently made its last payment of $2,500 on a half interest in three claims which they held under bond. This gives them clear title to 173 acres of fine mineral land. Many Reno people are interested in the Rocky Hill proposition.

STRIKE NEAR CARLIN

William B. Barney returned yesterday from a new district twenty-five miles north of Carlin where he located many claims in a hitherto unexplored region. Those interested with him are Judge Moore, E. L. Dempsey, Will Robinson and E. B. Mayhew of Reno who together with Barney have an interest in sixty claims in this new district. Barney came from here immediately upon the receipt of the information that this section contained valuable deposits which had not been located. Ole Elliott and his party also went in about the same time and Elliott is still on the ground.

Barney brought some supplies from a ledge from one of the claims which when opened leaves a string of copper. Assays are now being made from these supplies. Three large porphyry dykes traverse the property of the Reno men and all evidences point to the fact that a vast mineral area of good value has been disclosed. As yet the district is unorganized, no town-site having been laid out. There are two saloons and an improvised hotel located there now.

The Red Boy shaft is down 290 feet and the last twenty-five feet has been in solid quartz, carrying 5 to 8 per cent copper. The Saratoga shaft is down about 310 feet, the rock still brecciated, slightly softer and breaking to better advantage than in Red Boy. Both companies will crosscut at 500 feet. The ledges which are being cut at about forty feet, carrying about $78 to the ton on Red Boy and $127 on Saratoga. Should the values continue to increase in Red Boy, both companies will undoubtedly find larger ledges with higher grade at 500 feet.

The Greenwater Red Boy and Saratoga companies have placed orders for new and heavier equipment, to cost about $7,500 each, and included two sixty-horse hoist and two Ingersoll-Sargent straight-line, belt driven compressors, for twelve to fourteen Wonder air drills, which will be delivered and installed immediately.

Reliable sources tell of a recent strike in the Montgomery Shoshone, which discloses remarkable values in free gold in a blind ledge of quartz, encountered a little below the 400 foot level in the double compartment shaft.

The Potosi mines, near Los Vegas, are regular shippers of lead and zinc ore, and they now have nearly 100 cars loaded ready for shipment to the eastern smelter upon completion of the Salt Lake washout.

BUILDING WILL BOOM IN ONE MORE MONTH

Stock of Lumber Is Sold Out in the Yards Now, But Early in May the Fall Cut of the Mountain Mills Will Be Shipped in

D. A. Shannon, a prominent builder of this city, stated yesterday afternoon that lumber cannot be procured from the yards in this city. He said that building operations are delayed awaiting the opening of the Nevada-California railroad, bringing to the market the last fall cut.

While the prospective owners of homes here are mourning the prosperity that makes the completion of their houses a dream of the summer, the contractors and mill men are getting out "made-up" material for the building campaign. Five months is the time necessary for finishing an ordinary five room house under present conditions; but the carpenters are beginning to despair of ever completing an easily built home now.

"In one month the city will boom with activity in the construction line," stated Shannon. "Lumber is sold out in the yards and the mountain mills are unapproachable. But when the mills in the Sierras are working again, the supply will be sent in here so fast that none of the contractors need despair."

"Train service, interrupted at the opening of the season, has seriously hampered the work of the contractors. Reno needs a lot of lumber. Every body able to start a house is waiting for the time when the workmen can start without a sure delay coming when the labor is half-completed."

"During the coming summer, I predict that the amount of money spent for residences and business blocks here will surpass any sum ever expended in three times the same period."

As a Matron Miss Ethel Bacon Will Have Plenty to Cook With

Seventeen intimate girl friends of Miss Ethel Bacon, who is to be married April 24, attended the "kitchen showed" at the residence of Miss Beulah Herschler yesterday afternoon. So numerous were the gifts a dray will be necessary for the prospective bride to move them to her new home.

Every conceivable article of the kitchen was presented to the popular guest of honor. Frying pans, dish pans, boiling pots, scrubbers, sieves, strainers, baking powder and other articles dear to the housewife were carried and sent to the Herschler residence.

Refreshments were served the guests. Miss Bacon was congratulated and many expressions of happiness were tendered her. The decorations were green and white. The following guests were present: Misses Ethel Bacon, Mary Bacon, Mabel Blackie, Maud Brambila, Edna Stoddard, Gertrude Hibbard, Elizabeth McCormack, Isabel Miller, Mabel Reid, Kate O'Neill, "Bobbie" O'Neill, Edna Southerland, Obis Southerland, Irene Peterson, Ruth Nickerson, Clara Ward and Beulah Herschler. The two latter girls were the hostesses.

Agitator Shaw, the man who has made the labor organization known as the Industrial Workers of the World the most cordially hated of any in the west, was arrested Monday night in Tonopah, according to Editor W. W. Booth of the Bonanza, who arrived here yesterday. Shaw was taken in custody for fighting on the street. He was taken before Judge Brissell and released on $200 cash bail.

"Shaw has been in Tonopah for the last few days speaking on the street in defense of the union he represents. But his arguments became more anarchical each night. The better element, angry at the treasonable statements, protested. But Shaw remained to repeat the offense. At last he was 'rotten-egged.' Two nights this performance was acted.

"Shaw was next arrested for the fight in which he engaged on the street. This judge before whom his preliminary trial will be held is sure to pronounce a sentence that will leave no doubt of the fearless officials of Tonopah. Brissell is not afraid to give the same justice to a member of the I. W. W. as to any other class."

L. Lovelock, who is a Southern Pacific fireman, reported to the police officials of Reno yesterday that his costly gold watch was stolen a few days ago. He believes that the article was pawned here, and he asks the department to investigate.

Lovelock stated that he was taking a bath at the railroad employees' lounging room at Sparks about April 12, when he left his watch in the building. A few moments after he discovered the loss, but on searching for the missing piece of jewelry, it was gone.

ONE OF NEVADA'S BEST KNOWN STOCKMEN DEAD

JOHN J. ALEXANDER GONE TO THE GREAT BEYOND
Funeral to Be Held Tomorrow Afternoon Under the Direction of the Masons, With Which Fraternity He Had Affiliated for Many Years

John J. Alexander, one of Nevada's best known cattle men, is dead and with the passing of his spirit from this earth a noted Mason, a pioneer of the state and Reno citizen's work is done. Alexander had been suffering from an illness of several days, resulting from a complication of diseases that have harassed him for several years. The family at the little home three miles below Reno are mourning the loss of a man they loved well, one who always worked for the interests of his friends and was known and liked by every old settler in Nevada.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock. The Masons will have charge of the services, and interment will be after the services in the temple here.

Born in Belfast, Maine, in 1841, John Alexander worked as a ship-builder until the "go west" fever became strong in his veins. To the coast he journeyed with his brother, Lewis Alexander, in 1860, and three years later they had acquired great herds of cattle, and were known as the largest owners in Nevada. In 1888 John Alexander came to Washoe county and located a few miles south of this city.

Forty-five years before his death Alexander was taken into the Masonic order. He joined at Virginia City. Since then he has always been a member of high standing in the order.

John Alexander was one of twelve children. Two brothers and a sister survive. Ruby Alexander, a brother, lives at Belfast, Me. Lewis Alexander, a brother, lives in this city, and Lucy Alexander Shannon, a sister, is a resident of Oakland.

Lovelock stated that he was taking a bath at the railroad employees' lounging room at Sparks about April 12, when he left his watch in the building. A few moments after he discovered the loss, but on searching for the missing piece of jewelry, it was gone.

Mme. Modjeska is writing her memoirs, and is transcribing her recollections of her native land—Poland. Her intention was to write them in English, but the ideas had a tendency to slip away from her until she adopted plan of writing them in her native tongue, she told a reporter in a recent interview. The memoirs are to be translated into English.

EDITORS MISS A FINE WEATHER IS CONDUCTIVE TO MOTORING

Yesterday was a busy day in automobile circles, and the streets showed nearly as many machines per capita as do those of Goldfield, which is supposed to boast more devil wagons for its population than any other city in the United States.

The big Royal tourist bearing the name "Vulture" across the back of its tonneau, the property of Henry Webber of Goldfield, which is soon to start for that city, was much in evidence, and three new and shining cars of the Dorris manufacture were unloaded and made the hair of the average citizen stand on end every time he crossed the streets and heard the voices of their siren whistles.

Over on the depot platform stands a new Buick car which is waiting delivery, and although it is carefully covered with a tarpaulin the local auto enthusiast has long since examined it.

Besides the machines mentioned there were several other private cars out, and nearly all the local rent machines on the streets.

SAVED FROM DEATH BY QUICK ACTION

Fred Krein and S. B. Crane by Presence of Mind Prevent Heavy Bomber from Dropping on Cooley and Dalzell When an Excavation's Walls Gave Way

Buried to their shoulders under two tons of earth in the sewer they were digging, Dr. Cooley and Dalzell, who are putting up a Turkish bath establishment on East Second street, escaped death yesterday morning through the presence of mind displayed by Fred Krein and S. B. Crane.

The latter two men were standing at the side of the sewer when Dalzell and Cooley went below the ground. Barely had they shouted a warning of impending danger when the earth crashed down on them. Krein caught a ton-boulder with the end of a plank and with the assistance of Crane held it from falling into the hole and crushing the lives out of the men. Then by standard procedure the scene and aided in the rescue. The men, then by standard procedure the scene and aided in the rescue. Fumigation and Renovation for the Carnegie Library

Because of the fears of sickness prevalent in Reno, the library trustees of Reno have ordered that the Carnegie institution here be fumigated. This will probably be done during the latter part of the week.

Librarian John Harold Hamlin stated yesterday that the building will be thoroughly renovated, and any germs that may be the source of illness will be killed.

"The reading public is afraid to take out the books under present conditions," stated Hamlin. "We will attempt to remove this danger by obtaining the books and shelves."

The city health department ridicules the statements heard about many deaths that the cause is spinal meningitis, and the people are carried away by it without a moment's warning. According to the statistics published daily by the health officers the number of deaths from spinal meningitis is uncertain; and they are not nearly as numerous as the general public believes.

In his witty curtain speech Monday evening Wilton Mackaye defended women theatergoers from the idea of managers that they wanted a love story, meaning the adolescent bleating of calf love. He denied that they insisted on seeing the beautiful leading lady, Bertha M. Clay love down the sweet young heroine's back. He told also a funny story of George Bernard Shaw, an Irishman who went to England to write plays for America, in which Shaw on being called on for a speech by the performance of one of his plays, began speaking to his acquaintances in the orchestra, which tired the other part of the house. So when he asked, "How do you like the gallery yelled 'Rotten!'" Shaw looked up and said, amiably, "I quite agree with you, but what are we two against so many?"

The two thousandth performance of "The Chorus Lady," in which Rose Stahl is appearing, was celebrated by the distribution of souvenirs in the form of silver almond comports.
